DILIP KUMAR (MUHAMMED YUSUF KHAN) 11 DECEMBER 1922 ■ 7 JULY 2021

A conjurer of tears and smiles

SHILAJIT MITRA

We fell, head first, for Dilip Kumar's smile. There's Dilip, leaping up a window in Azaad (1955). In Kohinoor (1960), he's a gently grinning prince stuck on Meena Kumari. His prankish nature is well documented by friends and colleagues. There's nary a public photo of him without that trademark smile. 'Tragedy King' is a moniker best suited for history books. Dilip Kumar, who passed away at 98 in Mumbai after a prolonged illness, never missed a good laugh.

To understand the Dilip Kumar story is to get a guided tour of the subcontinent's past. He was born Mohammed Yusuf Khan in Peshawar in British India. In the 1930s, his family relocated to Bombay, where his father set up a fruit export business. Though Bombay would forever be Dilip Kumar's city, he also lived in Deolali and Pune for a while. His career, meanwhile, trailed past the confines of the Hindi film industry. He shot a number of his films in Chennai, and moved to Kurseong near Darjeeling for the 1970 Bengali film Sagina Mahato.

Known for his acute, realistic performances, Dilip Kumar is credited for introducing method acting in Indian cinema. He went to incredible lengths to inhabit a character psychologically. His naturalistic style created a fascinating friction with the era-defining films he starred in. It's startling, even now, to watch him refuse to chew up scenery in Mughal-E-Azam, or go irredeemably over-the-top in Ram Aur Shyam or Aan. "I never think of a character as a different person," he told BBC Hindi in a 1969 interview. "If I'm offered a character aged 30, but the script doesn't have the data for the 29 years of his life, I try to fill that in within the framework of the story..."

As with any great star, Dilip Kumar's legacy is inextricably tied up with other legends of his time. He was given his screen name by Devika Rani, the Bombay Talkies-head who offered him his first acting job (he debuted with Jwar Bhata in 1944). Since his family was close to the Kapoor clan, he formed a lasting friendship with Raj Kapoor, attending Khalsa College together and later collaborating in the 1949 romance Andaz. In a career spanning six decades, he rarely repeated directors, but when he did it was nothing short of event. Three of his best films – Devdas, Yahudi, Madhumati – were with Bimal Roy. Mehboob Khan punctuated the triangular romances of Andaz and Amar with the swashbuckling Aan. Late in his career, he became a favourite of Subhash Ghai, appearing in blistering blockbusters like Karma and Saudagar.

Equally iconic were his collaborations with some of the greatest female leads of Indian cinema. Given their contrasting onscreen personas, he was paired regularly with Vyjayanthimala—their natural chemistry and funny banter, a battle half won for nervy producers.

MAJOR CLEAN UP IN MEGA SHAKE-UP

Biggies like Javadekar, Prasad among 12 sacked; seven promoted to Cabinet rank; 43 take oath of office; Rijiju gets law, Mandaviya health, Scindia civil aviation

FOUR MPs FROM K'TAKA INDUCTED AS MoS, DVS RESIGNS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AS part of the massive rejig of the Union Council of Ministers, four parliamentarians from Karnataka were inducted as ministers of state on Wednesday. Three-time Rajya Sabha member Rajeev Chandrasekhar, two-time Udupi-Chikkamagaluru Lok Sabha member Shobha Karandlaje, two-time MP from Bidar Bhagwanth Khuba and first-time MP from Chitradurga A Narayanaswamy took oath along with 39 other new Union ministers on Wednesday.

Shobha Karandlaje is MoS agriculture and farmer welfare, Rajeev Chandrashekhar MoS skill development and entrepreneurship as well as electronics and information technology, Narayanaswamy MoS social justice and empowerment, and Bhagwanth Khuba MoS for new and renewable energy, chemicals and fertilisers.

Hours before the swearing-in, a senior minister in the Narendra Modi cabinet and former chief minister of Karnataka DV Sadananda Gowda resigned from his ministerial post.

With the induction of four new MPs from Karnataka, the State now has six ministers in the union council of ministers, including Rajya Sabha member Nirmala Sitharaman and Lok Sabha member Pralhad Joshi.

Shobha, who has served as a legislator and minister in Karnataka, has been an RSS member for decades and is rooted in the party's ideology. Her induction comes as a replacement to Sadananda Gowda under Vokkaliga representation. She was expected to make it to the central cabinet in 2019 when the Modi-led NDA government returned to power at the Centre. Instead, Sadananda Gowda was allowed to continue. P4

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

AIMING to do an image makeover and making the party poll ready with ample representation from the weaker sections of the society, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday carried out a major shake-up of his council of ministers. The adverse impact of Covid-19 apparently led to the culling of 12 ministers, including biggles like Dr Harsh Vardhan, Ravi Shankar Prasad and Prakash Javadekar.

With the government being hauled over the coals by an aggressive higher judiciary during the Covid second wave, Prasad lost his place in the new Cabinet. The new law minister is Kiren Rijiju, who has been elevated to Cabinet rank.

Javadekar was seen as not having delivered as the first spokesperson of the Centre in his role as minister for information and broadcasting. The new I&B minister is Anurag Thakur, who has also been given Cabinet rank. Vardhan, in the firing line for not anticipating the Covid second wave, lost his health portfolio to Mansukh Mandaviya, who who had been actively arranging medicines for Covid patients.

The axe also fell on Ramesh Pokhriyal 'Nishank' (education goes to Dharmendra Pradhan), DV Sadananda Gowda (chemicals and fertilizers with Mandaviya as added responsibility) and six ministers of state, which included Santosh Kumar Gangwar and Babul Supriyo.

Others who were elevated to Cabinet rank were Hardeep Puri, G Kishen Reddy, R K Singh and Puroshottam Rupala. In all, 43 ministers took oath of office. The first was Narayan Rane as Cabinet minister, which indicated the party is not looking to win back the Shiv Sena in Maharashtra, and will go it alone in the next Assembly polls while expanding its support base in the Konkan region. He will hold the MSME portfolio.

As expected, former CM of Assam Sarbananda Sonowal and the architect of the BJP government in Madhya Pradesh, Jyotiraditya Scindia got Cabinet rank. Scindia is the new minister for civil aviation. Interestingly, his father Madhavrao Scindia had quit as civil aviation minister in 1992 after an aircraft crash.

BJP's national general secretary Bhupender Yadav, a key aide of Union home minister Amit Shah, and a protégé of late minister Arun Jaitely, joined the Cabinet. He will hold the environment and labour portfolios. Shah has been given the additional role of running the new ministry of cooperation.

Bureaucrat-turned-politician Ashwani Vaishnaw from Odisha also entered the Cabinet. He had earned his spurs while working in Atal Bihari Vajpayee's PMO.

A dozen ministers from the Scheduled Castes were also drafted in, including A Narayanswamy (Karnataka), Kaushal Kishore (UP) and L Murugan (Tamil Nadu). With eight ministers hailing from the tribal community, the BJP clearly sought to work out its social engineering with the SCs, STs and Other Backward Castes (OBCs).

NDA allies who took their oath included R C P Singh (JD-U) and Pashupati Paras (LJP), both Cabinet rank, and Anupriya Patel of Apna Dal as minister of state.

With Gujarat elections due next year, Mandaviya and Puroshottam Rupala, both hailing from electorally significant Patidar community, were promoted. Kishen Reddy's elevation was in line with the BJP's political aspirations in Telangana. Adding combative faces, the PM drafted in Shobha Karandlaje (Karnataka) and Meenakshi Lekhi (Delhi), while Bengal was represented by four new faces. P9

YOUNGEST-EVER TEAM PICKED SO FAR

With an average age of 56, the new team is the youngest-ever Modi has led so far. The youngest is first time Lok Sabha member from Cooch Behar Nisith Pramanik (35), while the eldest is 69. The other young ministers are Shantanu Thakur (38), Anupriya Patel (40), Bharati Pawar (42) and John Barla (45)

SEVEN FORMER BABUS IN MODI'S NEW TEAM

The new team has 27 members representing the Other Backward Classes, 12 Scheduled Caste and eight Scheduled Tribe ministers. It also has a Muslim, Christian and Sikh each and two Buddhists. As for professionals, it has three lawyers, six doctors, five engineers and seven former civil servants

Elections, caste equations weigh heavy in rejig

MANISH ANAND AND ANURAAG SINGH @ New Delhi/Lucknow

ELECTORAL imperatives as well as the BJP's desire to shed its image as a primarily upper-caste party appeared to weigh heavy in Wednesday's Cabinet reshuffle as Prime Minister Narendra Modi inducted several faces belonging to the Scheduled Caste, Scheduled Tribe and OBC communities.

Given that non-Yadav OBC and non-Jatav Scheduled Castes had played a significant role in the BJP winning 312 of Uttar Pradesh's 403 Assembly seats in 2017, Wednesday's Cabinet expansion kept in mind the caste arithmetic of the state.

The state also bagged the maximum number of berths with seven of its MPs taking the oath. Of them, six are either from OBCs or Scheduled Caste. Pankaj Chaudhary and Anupriya Patel belong to the Kurmi community, categorised as OBCs. B L Verma is a Lodh-Rajput, also an OBC. Kaushal Kishore, an eloquent MP considered close to Union Home Minister Amit Shah, belongs to the OBC Pasi caste. The other two from backward communities are S P S Baghel and Bhanu Pratap Singh Verma. They belong to the SC and Kori OBC communities respectively. The only upper-caste member from UP is Ajay Kumar, a Brahmin.

Similar social engineering has been attempted in the representation from Maharashtra. Of the four new ministers from the state, only Narayan Rane, a Maratha, belongs to the upper caste. Among the other three, Bhagwat Karad is a Wanjari OBC, Kapil Patil belongs to Agri OBC community and Bharti Pawar is from a Scheduled Tribe.

From Madhya Pradesh, the party picked Virendra Kumar—a seven-term parliamentarian— who's from the Khatik OBC community, which constitutes 15-16% of the state's population.

The humiliation in the West Bengal Assembly elections did not stop the party from inducting two ministers from the state, both from the backward communities. While John Barla is an ST from the tea community in north Bengal, Shantanu Thakur is a Matua, an OBC who are Hindu refugees from Bangladesh.

In Gujarat, Patidar community members Puroshottam Rupala and Mansukh Mandavia were elevated to the Cabinet rank while Mahendrabhai Munjpara and Darshana Jardosh were made ministers of state. (With Sudhir Suryawanshi and Pranab Mondal)

Flying to be heavy on your pocket: KIA proposes big hike in user devpt fee

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

BE prepared to shell out more for your air travel from Bengaluru from October this year as Bengaluru International Airport Ltd (BIAL), operator of Kempegowda International Airport (KIA), has proposed a steep hike in User Development Fee (UDF). The proposal has been submitted to the Airports Economic Regulatory Authority (AERA) and is pending approval.

Now, the fee for domestic passengers is Rs 184 and for international flyers, it is Rs 839. AERA, after considering the fee hike put forth by BIAL, has proposed Rs 450 in first phase and Rs 555 in the later phase for domestic passengers. It has also considered a hike of Rs 1,350 and then Rs 2,220 for international passengers. AERA has put the fee hike on its website, inviting public comments.

Explaining the reason behind the hike, CEO and MD of BIAL Hari Marar told TNIE, "The tariff revision has come at a time when Kempegowda International Airport is about to complete and operationalise a massive Rs 13,000 crore expansion programme. This is further exacerbated by the fact that during the period of the recovery of this investment, traffic is at its lowest as a result of the ongoing pandemic."

B'luru saw 90% spike in NO_2 pollution in one year

Eight state capitals saw similar deterioration in air quality

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A new report from Greenpeace India revealed that a year after the initial Covid-induced nationwide lockdown, NO2 (nitrogen dioxide) pollution has increased in eight most populous state capitals -- Mumbai, Delhi, Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Chennai, Kolkata, Jaipur and Lucknow.

According to satellite observations, NO2 pollution in Bengaluru increased by 90 per cent, between April 2020 and April 2021, as per satellite data. The weather contributed little to this change. In 2020, the city recorded 0.085 Dobson Unit (DU) of NO2, and in 2021, the city recorded 0.161 Dobson Unit of NO2.

NO2 is a dangerous air pollutant that is released when fuel is burned -- in motor vehicles, power generators and during industrial processes. Exposure to NO2 can severely impact people's health at all ages, including the respiratory and circulatory systems and the brain, leading to an increase in hospital admission and mortality.

Delhi registered a dramatic spike of 125 per cent in NO2 emissions, Chennai saw a sharp 94 per cent increase, Mumbai 52 per cent, Hyderabad 69 per cent spike, Kolkata 11 per cent, Jaipur saw a 47 per cent spike, and Lucknow 32 per cent. These figures were recorded in April 2021, and compared to the same month last year.

The health impact of fossil-fuel related air pollution is severe, and is recorded in several reports, time and again. Yet, there has been little change in our reliance on fossil fuels, including coal, oil and gas, increased economic activity is still largely coupled with toxic air pollution in most cities, the organisation said in a press statement

"Air quality levels in these cities are alarming. The cities and people are already paying a huge price for our reliance on burning fossil fuels, this cannot continue. People saw clean skies and breathed fresh air during the nationwide lockdown, though it was an unintended consequence of the pandemic," said Avinash Chanchal, senior climate campaigner, Greenpeace India, adding that there is a need to transition to cleaner, equitable and sustainable decentralised energy sources such as rooftop solar, and clean and sustainable mobility must be central to recovery efforts across cities.

"The recovery from the pandemic must not come at the expense of a return to previous levels of air pollution," Chanchal added.

PHCs to be in focus for Covid mgmt in 3rd wave

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

TO handle cases better in the even of a third wave of Covid-19, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) is now planning to have a bottom-up approach. The BBMP is keen on decentralising the Covid-19 management to the grassroot level at the primary health centres (PHCs). And the first step in this direction is to study each of them and strengthen them.

Palike Special Commissioner (health) D Randeep told The New Indian Express that they are working towards having a PHC-driven approach. But first there is a need to strengthen and assess each of them, and the exercise has started, he said. The officer and two doctors from his team are visiting each PHC to assess details of staff, if any training is required and how they need to be empowered.

Randeep said a discussion on this will also be held with the BBMP Covid-19 expert committee and, after their nod, the exercise of decentralising the whole process from the zonal level to the PHC level will be start. The target is to strengthen every PHC by July-end and be prepared ahead of the third wave, he said.

Explaining the process, another BBMP health official said handling 20,000 cases is better when it is divided among 198 wards, instead of being managed from the head office or from the eight zonal offices.

"It is a calculated risk which we are willing to take and, if it does not click, then it can be easily reversed and the zonal head offices can take control again, because the existing structure will not be dismantled. The need for this arose when it was found that Covid-19 cases assessed at the PHC level were different from those at the zonal and head office level. It was also seen that while in some areas, people were more confident at the PHC, in other areas, the PHC was totally aloof from what was happening. But for immediate medical attention in case of Covid, the first place where citizens and even private hospitals would turn too was PHC for verification," the official said.

Repeaters to register to retain old marks

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

SECOND PUC repeaters, who wish to retain their marks in subjects they have scored well, will need to register for the same specifically. A department official told TNIE that students will get a chance to individually decide, per subject, for either retention of old marks or choose to take the test again for a better score.

The official added that in case students choose to write the exam, then their new marks will be taken into consideration. Also, if they fail to register for retaining old marks, or don't appear for the exam in the coming days, then they will get pass marks with a 5 per cent grace.

> If they fail to register for retaining old marks, or don't appear for the exam in the coming days, then they will get pass marks with a 5 per cent grace
> Official

The education department chalked out the procedure on Wednesday and said that students are supposed to send a cover letter though their principals for retaining their old marks before July 12. "Any applications beyond this date will not be accepted," said a department of Pre-University Education circular. Students who want to retake the test will also have to file a similar application with the college principal.

College principals will forwards these applications to the deputy directors by July 15. The applications will be sent to the department head office by July 19.

The department had also decided to schedule examination for fresh private candidates on August 31, for which results will be declared by September 20.

The department has raised the stakes further for those who choose to write the examination. They will not get a second opportunity to file new applications, once they have registered to retake the test.

Jain varsity offers support to students

To extend a helping hand, Jain (Deemed-to-be) University announced 100% scholarship for students, who lost their family members to Covid and are pursuing their online degree programmes in higher education.

Mock test not compulsory, says official

Bengaluru: Minister of Primary and Secondary Education S Suresh Kumar will hold a video interaction with SSLC students to boost their confidence on July 9 and 14 from 11 AM to 1:30 PM. More than 20,000 students are expected to be present from each district. Although the department has also planned a mock examination to familiarise students with the protocols and new mode of test, Commissioner of Public Instruction Anbu Kumar told TNIE that the mock test is not compulsory, but advised. Head masters have been asked to call small groups of 10-15 students to carry out the mock tests in the centres on July 15 and 17.

Meanwhile, all examination staff are expected to be vaccinated by July 8, as per department officials who claimed on Tuesday that more than 95 per cent have already been inoculated.

'College students to be inoculated by next week'

Bengaluru: Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta assured on Wednesday that college students and staffers will be completely vaccinated within a week and vaccination for those above 18 years will also start soon. Speaking to the media, he said that the government is trying to procure more vaccines, so that more people can be inoculated. So far, at least 53 per cent of the adult population has been vaccinated and the numbers will increase in the coming days. He said that the drive to vaccinate college students, which started a few days ago, will hopefully be complete within the next five to seven days. He admitted that vaccine hesitancy is still among people, so, BBMP staffers are going door-to-door to spread awareness. ENS

PEARL MARIA DSOUZA
@ Bengaluru

LEFT students' organisations are unanimously opposed to the government's move to start four-year degree courses, on the premise that it corporatises education by giving certificates as per a student's ability to stay in the system.

They said the four-year degree was a means to bring in foreign revenue, as such a degree suits students from outside India. For marginalised Indians, it would be a way for the government to legitimise dropouts. They believe the exit option would cause a rift between the haves and have-nots, where the former would be able to complete a four-year course, and the latter's exit would be validated as a certificate course.

"The whole purpose of education is to disburse knowledge, not just to get employment. However, the rosy picture being drawn about the exit option for students at various stages, just disguises education as a commodity, by giving certificates at each stage," said Sitara H M, member of All India Democratic Students Organisation (AIDSO) state secretariat.

Kishan, All India Students Association (AISA) state convener, said there is a clear indication in the NEP policy document about the move towards privatisation of education, as the state concedes its inability to support the sector.

Sarovar Benkikere, Karnataka Vidyarthi Sanghatane (KVS) state convener, said that although NEP recommends 6 per cent expenditure on Education, which has been a pending demand and should be prioritised, the four-year degree programme is being pushed. "It's laughable that a report has been sought from the committee in just 10 days, for the way the four-year courses will be implemented," he added.

Students' Federation of India (SFI) secretary of state Vasudev Reddy said the four-year degree course only benefits private colleges that can loot parents and students in the name of donation and hike in fees, with each year having an exit option. The four-year model was considered a failure in western countries but is being implemented here. The government, which failed to employ the vast number of MA, MPhil and PhD students, is trying to push unemployment statistics by a year," he said.

Ramesh Naik, All India Students' Federation (AISF) secretary, said that due to the pandemic, students are already finding it difficult to complete the three-year course, a four-year course would be impossible in these financial conditions.

Student factions are ready to intensify protests, with Karnataka set to become the first state to implement the policy.

PETER VIDAL

08th July: Mercury has now changed its position and many astrologers I know will be moaning about missed appointments. I see it very differently. I think that the coming period will be fantastic for everyone who wants a second shot at an opportunity which was seriously fluffed first time round.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Have other people been dragging their heels or simply giving you the runaround? Either way you do have cause to grumble. However, the question to be carefully considered is whether you should keep your complaints to yourself and be gentle and diplomatic.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
As the dust settles you'll see that so much more now seems to be attainable. The price of freedom is often high, but as time passes you will see that recent tough decisions put you on the right course. You're still encountering some challenges today, but the effect will be to help you sharpen up your act.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Financial muddles may only have added to the general air of confusion, yet there does seem to be considerable hope that matters are about to improve. The answer may lie in new partnerships. I suspect that you will soon be able to turn the tables on a rival.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Unlikely events may be seen as stepping stones to a brighter, happier, freer future. You are still juggling a variety of possibilities, so you must understand that complications are inevitable. It's how you deal with them that matters, so play it carefully.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The Sun, which always has a significant role in your life, is helping you develop and project certain of your more adventurous aspirations. In short, it's a superb time to organise an overseas trip. It's in foreign places that you'll discover your deeper destiny.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Mercury's current intriguing movements bring various possibilities to the fore. One is the need to develop your mind by taking up new interests. Another concerns the pleasure, inspiration and stimulation you will receive from long-distance travel.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Pleasant lunar alignments encourage you to do your best. You may have backed down too often in the past. But, this time, why don't you support your instincts and hunches? True, other people will have useful things to say but, looking at the next few days, it becomes clear that you will have to keep your own counsel.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Your planetary rulers, Mars and Pluto, are still pulling you in different directions. This is a sign that there is little chance for compromise. You are correct to stand your ground, but equally right to be diplomatic. It's as if you have to try and be two people at the same time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You may still feel as if you're riding an emotional roller-coaster, although it now looks as if recent planetary storms are dying down. Stand back and attempt to take a critical look at your attitudes and opinions. After all, something, somewhere, has to change - and for the better!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
This week's planetary patterns, notably the tough Mars-Saturn angle, are of the kind that rock the boat but help you sort the future out. Don't worry, though. Your trust has not been misplaced, but do go back and check one more time that you have done everything right.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
One of the great themes this week is honesty. If you run into any problems with a partner or loved one, don't blame the world at large or retreat behind a mask. Pretending that you don't feel as you do will serve no purpose and will only prolong a misunderstanding.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The planets do not move significantly, so don't expect much change just yet. You will do your best by continuing along your present path, dealing with commitments and responsibilities left over from yesterday. And do keep a very sharp eye on your money; generosity is fine but you don't want to be taken for a ride - do you?

Case load: Bengaluru slides to third position

Bengaluru Urban, which was topping the active cases chart among districts in the country, has slipped to third position, with the city recording a low number of cases, and higher daily discharges. Pune, in Maharashtra, tops the list with 17,708 active cases, followed by Ernakulam in Kerala, with 14,671 active cases, and Bengaluru with 14,138 active cases. The city reported 611 cases on Wednesday and the total positive cases are 12,17,507. Karnataka reported 2,743 new cases, with 3,081 recoveries. Karnataka reported 75 deaths, with the total count coming to 35,601. The state has conducted 3.5 crore tests since the first wave, while Maharashtra has conducted 4.3 crore tests, and Tamil Nadu did 3.4 crore tests. The highest number of tests was conducted in Uttar Pradesh, with more then 6 crore tests.

State death toll highest in South India, 2nd in country

Patients aged 50-80 yrs account for almost half the total number of deaths

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

WITH the Covid-19 death toll in Karnataka touching 35,434 on July 6, the state topped among the four southern states. Karnataka also stands second in the country, after Maharashtra, which saw 1,23,136 deaths. Statistics released by the State War Room show that patients aged 50-80 years accounted for almost half the total number of deaths in the state, since the pandemic set in.

While experts on Death Audit Committees attribute the reasons to limited testing, reluctance to visit hospitals due to social stigma, high cost of healthcare, late reporting and role of variants, doctors say the increase in deaths also point to many victims having diabetes and cardiac issues, and not even being diagnosed with the disorders until Covid-19 hit them.

"Many patients who came into ICUs had undiagnosed lung diseases, heart issues, diabetes and malnutrition-related conditions. I think this also contributed to, and played a vital role in claiming lives," says Dr CN Manjunath, Director, Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Diseases.

While Maharashtra recorded the highest number of deaths, Tamil Nadu recorded 33,059 deaths, Andhra Pradesh's toll is 12,870 and Kerala saw 13,818 deaths. Rajasthan recorded 8,941 deaths, the least among 10 states with a high death toll.

However, some doctors argue that when looking at deaths in a geographical area, one has to see the total number of cases detected. If more people are tested in a particular area, the case fatality rate -- number of deaths divided by total cases tested -- will give the actual death rate, for comparison among states. Meanwhile, patients aged 61-80 years have accounted for half the total deaths in the state since the start of the pandemic. Data released till July 6 shows 10,165 people aged 60-69 died in Karnataka, 7,774 were 50 to 59 years old, and 6,872 people aged 70-79 died due to Covid-19.

According to Dr Satyanarayana Mysore, HOD, Pulmonology, Manipal Hospitals, Bengaluru, the deaths also depend on the kind of strain -- H or L type -- which plays a role in determining fatality rate. "Though there is no research on which predominant strain was present in Karnataka, we have noticed that patients with hypoxia and oxygen-related issues had H type of virus, and those with severe lung infections had the L type. The L strain of coronavirus was more prevalent in Wuhan, China. If the same L type was present in our state, it could be the reason for high number of deaths," say doctors. The emergence of the highly transmissible Delta variant in the state, and increase in Covid infections also plays a major role.

Dr Ravindra Mehta, Chief of Pulmonology, Critical Care, Apollo Hospitals, says, "The second wave hit Karnataka with great velocity, and the state did not have the facilities and infrastrcture which other states enjoyed. For instance, Mumbai did not have shortage of resources, but Karnataka saw a massive shortage of oxygen, medicine, equipment and infrastructure. The second wave was very rapid and ferocious, and the cases overwhelmed the healthcare system, and could have also contributed to an increase in deaths."

However, experts warn that further deaths can be prevented by ensuring that people follow appropriate behaviour, to avoid further virus mutations. "Preparation for future waves by testing enough, ramping up vaccination and upgrading health infrastructure will play a major role in avoiding deaths. Also, lessons learnt during earlier waves should not be forgotten," said Dr Mehta.

STAYING INDOORS

Rashes to Vitamin D deficiency, lockdown hits children hard

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

THE pandemic and subsequent lockdowns, forcing children to stay indoors, have not just deprived them of proper ventilation and adequate Vitamin D due to lack of exposure to sunlight, but also exposed them to indoor dust, causing skin allergies. Doctors in Bengaluru are seeing an increase in the number of paediatric cases (5-10 age group) coming to them with these problems. They noticed a 20 per cent increase in cases of skin allergies in children over the past two months. A considerable number of cases are those with urticaria, that present red hives due to skin rash.

Dr Harish Kumar, consultant, paediatrics & paediatric intensive care, Aster CMI Hospital, said, "Sunlight has to fall on the skin directly, and this was not happening during the lockdown. The skin needs to sweat, which makes it healthy. Physical wellbeing is directly related to immunity which has gone down drastically, and we are seeing immunological disorders in children and they are catching infections." Dr Kumar added that many adolescents have been coming to hospital with blood pressure issues and fatty liver problems – ailments that are common among the elderly. "Every aspect of a child has been affected — emotional, physical, immunological and general wellbeing," he added.

Dr Merriyet MB, consultant paediatrician, Prakriya Hospitals, Tumakuru Road, said many girls in their teens were reporting Polycystic Ovarian Disease (PCOD) — a condition in which ovaries release immature or partially-mature eggs, eventually turning into cysts. Also, complaints of persistent headaches and migraine were also being reported among teenagers. "Outdoor activity is an integral part of a child's growth. Kids under five years of age require at least three hours of moderate physical activity each day, and those above five require at least an hour, which is difficult during lockdown. In the long run, this can affect the child's growth, emotional behaviour and resilience," Dr Merriyet added.

Dr Yogesh Kumar Gupta, Head, Paediatric Intensive Care Unit, Fortis Hospitals, Bannerghatta Road, said the situation is such that even children who earlier could not gain weight are now being brought in by their parents with complaints of being overweight. "Many children are now complaining of joint pain due to this. Vitamin D deficiency is seen in many. We are not seeing respiratory infections now, but other problems," he said.

THE BJP seems to be planning well ahead for the 2023 Assembly polls and the 2024 Parliamentary polls if the representation given to communities and regions in Wednesday's reshuffle of the Narendra Modi cabinet is anything to go by.

The induction of Anekal Abbaiah Narayanaswamy, representing Chitradurga (Central Karnataka), Shobha Karandlaje (Coastal and Malnad regions), Bhagwant Khubha (Kalyana Karnataka), and Rajeev Chandrasekhar (South Karnataka) clearly point to the party's long-term strategy to take on the Congress in Karnataka and its leader Siddaramaiah, who is eyeing a comeback in the next elections.

Though he hails from Anekal in Bengaluru Rural district and represented the constituency four times from 1998 to 2013, the 64-year-old was picked for the Chitradurga Lok Sabha seat for the first time in 2019. As MP, Narayaswamy has been on the Committee on Welfare of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes, Standing Committee on Water Resources and the Consultative Committee of the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment.

A non-controversial politician, he fast-tracked pending projects in Chitradurga and Tumkuru districts after he became MP. His major contribution to Chitradurga has been bringing the Upper Bhadra waters to Vanivilas Sagar dam. He was also instrumental in the constitution of the Justice A J Sadashiva Commission to look into internal reservation for the Madiga community, which is before the government.

A SC leader from the Madiga (Left) community, A Narayanaswamy was cabinet minister for Social Welfare under three BJP CMs—B S Yediyurappa, D V Sadananda Gowda, and Jagadish Shettar — between 2010 and 2013, and commands respect from his community, which constitutes the largest group among the Scheduled Castes in Karnataka. During his first tenure as MLA, he was Chief Whip of the BJP legislature party till 1999.

Speaking to TNIE from New Delhi, Narayanaswamy said that he will ensure that all the pending projects in Karnataka are expedited. Priority will be to get national project status for the Upper Bhadra project, speeding up of the Tumkuru-Davanagere direct railway line among others. "I am happy to work with Prime Minister Narendra Modi to whom the country comes first and has been working relentlessly to make the country a Vishwa Guru," he said.

An entrepreneur and a social worker who has been in public life for more than three decades, Narayanaswamy is a graduate from the Government Arts College Bengaluru.

Shobha Karandlaje will be Vokkaliga face in new Modi cabinet

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

Udupi-Chikkamagaluru MP Shobha Karandlaje with Prime Minister Narendra Modi after she was inducted into the Union council of ministers, in Delhi on Wednesday

Shobha Karandlaje (54)

Dakshina Kannada

2nd term Lok Sabha MP from Udupi-Chikkamagaluru

Was Minister in Karnataka Government with portfolios of Food and Civil Supplies, Power, Rural Development and Panchayati Raj

MA in Sociology from Mangalore University

Quit BJP in 2013 along with B S Yediyurappa and rejoined in 2014

Replaces DVS as Vokkaliga face in the cabinet

TWO-time Udupi-Chikkamagaluru MP Shobha Karandlaje's induction into the Union council of ministers will bring her to the forefront of Karnataka politics once again after a gap of seven years.

By replacing D V Sadananda Gowda, a fellow Vokkaliga, in the cabinet, 54-year-old Shobha will be one of the prominent Vokkaliga faces of the BJP to take on KPCC president D K Shivakumar and former chief minister and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy.

Soon after her first election as MLA from Yeshwantpur in 2008, she had emerged as one of the important ministers in the first BJP government headed by B S Yediyurappa and later on by Jagadish Shetter, holding important portfolios like RDPR and Energy.

But after she returned to BJP from KJP in 2014 along with Yediyurappa and became Lok Sabha MP, she did not get much prominence in the state politics and was mostly confined to Udupi-Chikkamagaluru. Sources said she had made a strong bid to return to state politics during the last Assembly election, but her attempts were thwarted by party leaders opposed to Yediyurappa.

"In 2019, many within the party tried to ensure that she misses the ticket to contest again from Udupi-Chikkamagaluru by foisting false accusations that she is rarely found in her constituency, but they didn't succeed in their plan. There were constant efforts to cut her to size and it became more intense after Nalin Kumar Kateel became the party's state president," said a close confidante of Shobha.

As a Union minister now, Shobha, who hails from Puttur in Dakshina Kannada, is likely to regain her control over the party in the coastal region along with Old Mysuru and Malnad where she enjoys significant clout as a Vokkaliga leader. The people of Mysuru still remember her achievements as district minister.

Dakshina Kannada BJP chief M Sudarshan said they can now expect her to bring a lot of development to the region.

Khuba's induction raises hopes of Kalyana K'taka

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

Bhagwant Khuba (54)

Bidar

2nd term MP from Bidar

BTech degree in Mechanical Engineering from Sree Siddaganga Institute of Technology, Tumakuru

Replaces late Suresh Angadi as Lingayat face in the Union council of ministers

THE induction of Bidar MP Bhagwant Khuba, a mechanical engineer (BE Mech), has come as a pleasant surprise to the people of the hitherto neglected Kalyana Karnataka. In a sense, it is seen as a fitting reward for defeating Karnataka's political heavyweights like the late Dharam Singh and Eshwar Khandre in the last two Parliamentary elections, which he won handsomely from Bidar Lok Sabha constituency.

Khuba's elevation is also seen by many leaders in the state as the Centre's strategy to appease the dominant Lingayat community in Karnataka. According to sources, the Centre found Khuba as a perfect replacement for the late Suresh Angadi, who was Union Minister of State for Railways and hailed from Lingayat-Banajiga community which Khuba belongs to.

Known for his ability to take people of all communities into confidence, Khuba also went on to create a record of sorts as the first MP to make it to the Union cabinet from Bidar, a feat which the seven-time MP of Bidar, late Ramachandra Veerappa, also could not achieve in the past despite his phenomenal winning spree in Lok Sabha elections.

'Santhosh played role in selecting ministers'

A state BJP vice-president, Shobha had been a staunch loyalist of CM BS Yediyurappa. She had quit BJP with him in 2013 to form the Karnataka Janata Party and later returned to BJP along with him. But since Yediyurapa took charge as CM, she has been maintaining a distance from him. Sources said she was picked over Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha, who was vying for a Union cabinet berth.

Khuba was a novice to politics when he contested against Congress heavyweight Dharam Singh from Bidar in 2014. He won that election and the next one, riding the Modi wave. A Lingayat, he is expected to fill the gap left behind by late Suresh Angadi in the cabinet. The luckiest of them all seems to be A Narayanaswamy. He was handpicked by Home Minister Amit Shah to contest the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. Party sources suggested that BJP National General Secretary (Organisation) BL Santhosh had a big role to play in choosing these ministerial candidates.

Delhi call-up after 2-yr wait for Rajeev

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

ALTHOUGH he joined the BJP only in 2018, Rajeev Chandrasekhar was sure of being inducted into the Union Cabinet in 2019 after the NDA returned to power. But what he missed two years ago, he got on Wednesday when he was inducted as Minister of State in the Modi cabinet. A three-time member of the Rajya Sabha, he was elected twice as an independent from Karnataka before he officially joined the BJP and was elected as its candidate for his third stint in the Upper House.

Chandrasekhar's appointment is being seen as a recognition of his work for the BJP during the recent Assembly polls in Kerala and Puducherry. He also had a big role in managing the logistics for those who switched to the BJP from the Congress and JDS to bring the BJP to power in Karnataka. A serial entrepreneur and technocrat, Chandrasekhar has big investments in media ventures, NGOs, startups, aviation sector, etc. While he is a member of various parliamentary committees, Chandrasekhar is also a national spokesperson of the BJP and vice-chairman of the Vivekananda International Foundation that was started by National Security Adviser Ajit Doval. He had raised issues of 2G spectrum, IT Act, Right to Privacy, and Net neutrality during the UPA regime.

KSE sore over quota for ZP, TP polls

ENS @ Kalaburagi

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa has expressed his disappointment over the reservation for Zilla Panchayat and Taluk Panchayat seats. Speaking to reporters here on Wednesday, he termed it as a hurried exercise, but was quick to add that it was his personal opinion as an elected representative, and not as a minister. The government had requested the State Election Commission to defer elections till December, but all of a sudden, the reservation categories for ZP and TP elections were announced, he said.

Questioning the move of the State Election Commission, Eshwarappa wanted to know whether it was announcing the calendar of events before December, or whether it was restricted to the reservation matrix. He, however, made it clear that the government will cooperate with the State Election Commission. As a political party, BJP is ready to face the elections and is confident of winning a majority of ZP and TP seats, he said.

On D V Sadananda Gowda's resignation from the Union Cabinet, he said, "Gowda is a committed BJP worker. The real workers are never after power. They will abide by the party."

'Come out of lockdown mode, start session preps'

BENGALURU: Assembly Speaker Vishweswar Hegde Kageri on Wednesday directed his officials to come out of "quarantine and lockdown mode" and start preparing for the legislature session. Kageri said it is the government's prerogative to decide when and where the session is to be held, but they have to start the preparations to ensure that the session is held smoothly. The officers need to get to work on a war-footing and finish tasks that are pending for the last several months, the Speaker said. Earlier in the day, while speaking to media persons, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Basavaraj Bommai said the date for the monsoon session of the state legislature is yet to be decided and the matter would be discussed with Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa.

Cong leaders ride cycles to protest fuel price hike, demand Centre to cut taxes

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Congress leaders take out a cycle rally in Bengaluru on Wednesday protesting against the soaring fuel prices | VINOD KUMAR T

AS fuel prices continue to rise, leaders of the Opposition Congress in Karnataka took cycle rallies across the state as a mark of protest.

Former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, KPCC president DK Shivakumar, KPCC working-presidents Ramalinga Reddy and Saleem Ahmed, senior leaders RV Desphpande, BK Hariprasad and others took part in the protest in different parts of the state.

In Bengaluru, Reddy said while fuel prices are skyrocketing, the Centre is not taking any measures to provide relief to people, who are in distress due to the increase in prices of fuel, cooking gas and essential commodities.

Reddy said though prices of crude oil in the international market have come down, the Union and State governments were levying a heavy tax of up to 60% on petrol and diesel. As permission was not given for the protest, police took Congress leaders into custody and released them later.

Meanwhile, Siddaramaiah, who took part in the protest in Mysuru urged the government to cut taxes on fuel to provide relief to people.

Shivakumar, who was in Udupi, echoed the same. Shivakumar hit out at the government for its failure to handle the Covid-19 situation and to provide relief to people.

RENUKACHARYA PLANS MEET TO COUNTER DISSENTERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TO counter the moves of rebels within the Bharatiya Janata Party, Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa's political secretary MP Renukacharya is holding a meeting of party legislators in Bengaluru soon.

Renukacharya said that over the last few days, minister CP Yogeeshwara, MLA Basanagouda Yatnal and MLC AH Vishwanath have been issuing statements against the chief minister that are false and defamatory.

Renukacharya said that after the meeting with party legislators, he will head to New Delhi to complain against the three to the BJP central leadership and seek action against them.

He said that while Congress has issued a diktat that no one should issue statements about future leadership, BJP leaders are openly criticizing Yediyurappa.

Party National General Secretary Arun Singh, who is in charge of Karnataka, had visited the state on June 16, 17 and 18, met party legislators and asked them not to issue statements irresponsibly. But he is yet to take action against the rebels.

Siddu against inducting 'betrayers' into Cong

MYSURU: Without naming those who had defected and brought down the JDS-Congress government, Opposition leader Siddaramaiah on Wednesday said that he is against inducting leaders who have time and again betrayed the party. While insisting that anyone is free to join the Congress, he said those who betrayed the party will not be forgiven and added that they will not be inducted if they returned.

Nalapad backs DKS, stirs leadership cauldron again

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

It began with a tweet from the official twitter handle of KPCC which said the State would be better governed if KPCC president DK Shivakumar became the Chief Minister.

Soon after, a host of MLAs, including BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan, Akhanda Srinivasa Murthy and others, were chanting the "Siddaramaiah for CM" mantra. A couple of weeks ago, Congress seemed split vertically with pro and anti-Siddaramaiah groups issuing statements against each other. The issue reached the party high command and AICC General Secretary in-charge of Karnataka Randeep Surjewala wrote a letter laying out guidelines that partymen should not make any statement about future leadership. After weeks of firefighting, some semblance of unity had returned. But now Mohammed Nalapad has stirred the dreaded subject again, saying if people vote for Congress, Shivakumar will be the next CM. It is no secret that Nalapad is going to take over as State Youth Congress president on February 1, 2022 following the intervention of Shivakumar. While he won the KPYC president elections in January 2021, he was disqualified by a decision of the Youth Congress election commission which did not take into account 47,000 of his votes. While Nalapad and his supporters threatened to fight back, Shivakumar intervened and stood by Nalapad.

In a major convenience, citizens can shortly get their Aadhaar card mobile number updated at their doorstep through postal delivery staffers. Trial runs on this have begun across Karnataka and a full-fledged launch is imminent.

Baig's assets to be valued during auction

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Government informed the Karnataka High Court on Tuesday that it has issued two notifications to attach the movable and immovable properties of former minister R Roshan Baig in the IMA scam case to protect the interest of depositors.

The government stated before a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj that the two notifications were issued to attach Baig's properties, considering a report submitted by Harsh Gupta, the Competent Authority and Special Officer for IMA cases, and the chargesheet filed by the CBI.

The value of movable assets will be evaluated at the time of auction. The current market value of sites and commercial complexes will be toted up with the help of sub-registrar. The value quoted in the documents was what Baig mentioned while filing his affidavit ahead of the 2018 Assembly elections, the government said. It issued notifications after repeated directions from the court to protect the interest of thousands of depositors.

DETAILS OF SOME MOVABLE AND IMMOVABLE ASSETS

Cash balance in 6 banks accounts of Baig, his wife and firms owned by him, worth ₹2.03 crore
Shares worth ₹6.80 lakh
Gold and silver worth ₹42.40 lakh
3 sites worth ₹8.91 crore
2 commercial complexes worth ₹1.73 crores
2 houses worth ₹3.64 crore

Rs 62.26 cr excess paid

The State Government informed the court that it has issued another notification to attach the excess amount paid to top 100 depositors.

The excess is over and above the principal deposit amount, which was paid to the depositors in the form of periodic returns. The top 100, who had deposited Rs 85.89 crore with IMA, were paid 137.55 crore. Of this, Rs 62.26 crore has been paid from the money deposited by other depositors and not from any income or profit generated from a bonafide business activity.

B'desh woman's rape: Cops file 1,000-page chargesheet

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

RAMAMURTHY Nagar police have submitted a detailed chargesheet running into more than 1,000 pages in connection with the gang rape and assault on a Bangladeshi woman recently. The chargesheet, which has named 12 persons as accused, has been submitted to the court within a short span of five weeks.

In the last week of May, a video clip had gone viral in which a woman was seen subjected to sexual abuse and physical torture by five people, including a woman. The five were immediately traced and arrested by the police. A suo motu case of gang rape and assault was taken up, and special teams were formed under the supervision of DCP (East) SD Sharanappa, which were assigned specific tasks to ensure speedy investigation, Police Commissioner Kamal Pant said. "Initial questioning of the accused revealed the identity of the victim as being a native of Bangladesh, who had illegally entered India. Further, they stated that due to disputes between them and the victim, regarding their business in immoral trafficking, they developed deep enmity and committed the offence. They had a physical feud over a financial issue in connection with flesh trade, and also over the victim diverting other girls working with the accused," Pant added.

"Totally, 12 accused are arrested, out of whom 11 of them and the victim are Bangladesh nationals. A detailed and systematic 1,019 pages chargesheet is submitted to the court within a short span of five weeks, which is highly commendable," he said, adding that the investigation team has been sanctioned a reward of Rs 1 lakh for their remarkable work.

HC notice to govt over arms licence exemption

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Wednesday issued notice to the State and Central Governments, following a PIL which questioned the Constitutional validity and legality of the exemption granted to Kodavas from the requirement to obtain licence to carry and possess firearms, as required under the provisions of the Indian Arms Act.

Hearing the petition filed by an ex-Army officer on the grounds that exemption is unconstitutional, as it creates differentiation based on race/caste and ancestral land tenure, a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Suraj Govindaraj issued the notice.

Capt YK Chethan (retd) of Galibeedu village of Madikeri taluk, questioned the notification dated October 29, 2019, issued by the Ministry of Home Affairs exempting "Every person of Coorg race and every Jamma tenure-holder in Coorg" from some of the provisions of the Arms Act, 1959, till October 31, 2029.

Pull up your socks and wear shoes, judges' guards warned

MG CHETAN @ Bengaluru

BODYGUARDS are expected to be alert and presentable all the time. How would it be to have a guard, who is not even wearing shoes, and spends all his time on the phone? This is exactly what happened with the judges of the Karnataka High Court.

Bodyguards deployed for the protection of judges are drawn from the City Armed Reserve (CAR) unit. It is, however, found that many of these guards are discharging their duty with sheer negligence. The common complaint is that the guards spend most of their time on their mobile phones, speaking, and many turn up for duty wearing chappals.

As a result, the DCPs have warned bodyguards of strict action if they are found to be lacking alertness while on duty, and have accordingly issued a set of directions to be followed. "Staff on guard duty must wear clean uniforms and shoes that are polished. At any cost, chappals should not be worn. While on duty, mobile phones should not be used and the staff should not spend their time speaking over the phone always. They have to be highly alert until their shift ends," a memo issued recently states.

"As per the instructions of judges, guards should wear only clean safaris or uniforms. They should get their weapons checked and cleaned once a month without fail. If guards want leave, they must take permission from their respective officers. They should be alert and always be watchful of people with suspicious behaviour near the residences of judges, and report the matter to the jurisdictional police," the memo adds.

Question mark over Kerala Covid strategy as cases rise

Experts say the present situation is prime for further uptick

UNNIKRISHNAN S @T'Puram

THE number of fresh Covid cases in Kerala has been increasing for the past few weeks, raising concerns about the trajectory of the pandemic situation. From a drastic drop since the end of May to a steady rise over the last two weeks has also put a question mark on the containment measures adopted by the state.Health experts have cautioned about the compounding effect of the steady rise in the number of patients infected by the virus everyday.The state on Wednesday reported 15,600 new cases -- 14% higher than the previous week.

With 148 more Covid deaths being confirmed on the day, the total toll in the state crossed the 14,000-mark. The state tested 1,50,630 samples in the last 24 hours, 20,000 more than the previous day. Yet, the test positivity rate stood at 10.36%. Kerala has the highest new positive cases among the states and more TPR than bigger states. The health experts said the present situation is prime for further uptick, if not another wave.

"The daily cases are likely to touch the 20,000-25,000 mark soon as the curve is rising steeply. A large section of the susceptible population and low reach of vaccination have made the situation vulnerable for an increase in cases. The trend was, in fact, evident from the close examination of data from the past two weeks," said immunologist and public health expert Dr Padmanabha Shenoy.

The dynamic nature of the pandemic calls for a dynamic strategy on the part of the government. The number of tests conducted per day and contact tracing have come down after crossing the peak of the second wave. While most districts have been given fixed targets for testing, the strategy has been criticised as unsuitable to deal with a pandemic situation."

The spread has increased due to low number of testing and poor contact tracing measures. We have not been able to crush the curve. Instead, the flattening of the curve resulted in the high number of new positive cases and high TPR. The number of people with serious illness has not come down as we expected," said Indian Medical Association state secretary Dr Gopikumar P.Health economist Rijo M John said a TPR above 10% calls for more testing to be done.

"By increasing the number of tests, you can always find more cases and isolate them more. It will help in controlling the spread. It is still a mystery why Kerala has high plateauing," he said.The high plateauing of new Covid cases and TPR in the state has prompted the Union health ministry to send an expert team to monitor the situation.

The two-member central team also suggested measures to strengthen contact tracing and quarantining on the first day of their visit on Monday. The health department has started measures to strengthen contact tracing and quarantining in six northern districts with high TPR. The health experts have suggested strictenforcement of the use of double masks in public and doing away with the restrictions that increase crowding in shops, buses and banks."

The high plateauing of TPR at 10% is due to the high infectivity of the virus as compared to the plateauing of around 5% in the first wave. It is likely to decrease by the fourth week of July when it could plateau around 5% for some more time. But we are expecting a third wave by August," said Dr S S Santhoshkumar, deputy superintendent, Government Medical College Hospital, Thiruvananthapuram.

The daily cases are likely to touch the 20,000-25,000 mark soon. A large section of the susceptible population and low reach of vaccination have made the situation vulnerable for an increase in cases

Save grass species, protect Jog Falls: Board

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

TO keep the Jog Falls alive and flowing in splendour, the critically endangered grass species -- Hubbardia diandra – has to be well protected.

This grass species has been listed in the threatened species list in the RET (Rare, Endangered and Threatened) Species report, prepared by the Karnataka Biodiversity Board. The report was released by board chairman Ananth Hegde Ashisara and forest minister Aravind Limbavalli on Wednesday.

Keshav Korse, committee member and botanist, said, "This grass species is found only in this region and because of its strong ground rooting capacity, the shape of the water falls is intact as it helps in ensuring that there is no soil erosion. This grass is found all along the Jog Falls and its surrounding areas."

The report lists 32 endangered plants and 56 animal and bird species which need immediate attention from the government and citizens, and is a comparison of what was assessed in 2009 to now.

The list of endangered species also includes Syzygium travancoricum Gamble (water jamuns found along water bodies), Myristica (nutmeg), Salim Ali Fruit Bat, Leatherback Sea Turtle, Kottigehara Dancing Frog, Kolar Leaf Nosed Bat, Lion Tailed Macaque, Malabar Large Spotted Civet, Water Buffalo and Sahayadri Forest Rat among others.

The committee members pointed out that Karnataka has roughly around 5,000 plant species, and1,000 of them are threatened. Most of the plants, animals and birds are facing threat because of habitat loss, mega projects, beach tourism, increasing use of pesticides in agricultural activities, exploitation of local resources to the maximum and many others. The committee members have suggested to the government to conduct a study once in five-six years, instead of 10 years, to know what needs to be done to protect the biodiversity.

Puneeth Pathak, member-secretary, Karnataka Biodiversity Board, said that the report has been prepared with the intention that the government and citizens will pay attention to what needs to be well protected. The list will be refined in the coming years.

After blame game with BJP, OPS-EPS quell speculation over alliance's future

T MURUGANANDHAM @ Chennai

TWO months after the State Assembly elections, former minister CVe Shanmugam triggered a debate in Tamil Nadu, charging that the AIADMK had lost due to its alliance with the BJP. The latter reacted sharply to this on Wednesday, blaming the Dravidian major for its electoral loss. Adding fuel to the fire was a unilateral statement from AIADMK coordinator and former Deputy Chief Minister O Panneerselvam asserting that ties between the two parties would continue and that the AIADMK had full faith in the BJP and Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Speculation on a possible widening in the rift between Panneerselvam and former Chief Minister and AIADMK joint coordinator Edappadi K Palaniswami only subsided later in the day when Palaniswami broke his silence and released a joint statement with Panneerselvam asserting, without naming the BJP, that the alliance would continue. However, State general secretary, KT Raghavan had told Express that a decision on continuing the alliance for the imminent local body polls will be made only after consulting party seniors.

The joint statement issued by Palaniswami and Panneerselvam said, "The AIADMK-led alliance won 75 seats and missed the opportunity to form the government just by three per cent votes. Though the results have demoralised the enthusiasm of the party cadre to some extent, our goal should be to form Amma's (J Jayalalithaa) government again... The alliance formed for 2021 Assembly elections continues and let us work shoulder-to-shoulder for the betterment of the State. There is no need for any doubt in this."

Shanmugam, addressing a party office-bearers meeting at Vanur in Villupuram district on Tuesday, had said, "The principal reason for AIADMK's defeat in the election is its alliance with the BJP. We lost votes of minority communities due to this alliance. They did not have any grouse against the AIADMK government since it had earned the goodwill of the people through its welfare measures... But the alliance arithmetic failed us."

Condemning this, Raghavan on Wednesday tweeted that the BJP felt that the AIADMK was the cause of their defeat. Speaking to Express, he said: "The top leaders of the AIADMK should clarify this issue. When we reviewed the results, BJP functionaries complained that the decisions taken by the AIADMK government in the past four years led to the defeat of BJP candidates in many places. But keeping in mind the alliance dharma, we did not express such views in public."

Countering Shanmugam's charge that the AIADMK lost minority votes because of the alliance, Raghavan pointed to the BJP's victory in the 2019 Parliamentary elections and its electoral performances in Uttar Pradesh and the northeastern states where minority communities have a significant presence. "Across the country, minority communities are voting in favour of the BJP. So, Shanmugam's view is wrong."

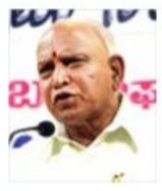
CM asks officials to prepare action plan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister BS Yediyurappa on Wednesday directed Water Resources Department officials to prepare an action plan to start work on the Mekedatu reservoir project.

Home, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Basavaraj Bommai told the media that the CM has directed officials to prepare an action plan and that he will be holding a meeting with legal and technical experts in the department this week, to discuss measures required to be taken for implementing the project.



While neighbouring Tamil Nadu has raised objections to the project and requested the Central government not to accord approval, the Karnataka government has made it clear that the project will help both states, and it will go ahead with it as planned.

Bommai said only a miscellaneous application is pending in the Supreme Court and all legal and technical issues related to the project will be discussed during the meeting by the CM. Terming it an important project in the Cauvery water management, the minister said it will play a key role in water distribution in distress years.

The reservoir, that can store 67.15 tmcft of water can generate 400 megawatt power. While Karnataka can utilise 4.75 tmcft for Bengaluru's drinking water purpose, Tamil Nadu's share of Cauvery water can be released from the same reservoir.

Sivagiri mutt former chief passes away

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @T'Puram

LONG before taking up the administrative responsibilities at Sivagiri Mutt, Swami Prakasananda used to undertake long pilgrimages on foot. The revered sage, who passed away on Wednesday at Varkala at the age of 99, had visited almost all major pilgrimage centres in the country, from Kanyakumari to Himalaya.

Swami Prakasananda, who was the former general secretary and president of Sree Narayana Dharma Sanghom Trust, was born at Kalatharadi House at Elikkattoor in Piravanthoor, Kollam, in December 1922. He was named Kumaran by parents Raman and Velumbi. Once during his teenage days, Sree Narayana Guru visited their house and as Guru noticed the presence of Kumaran, he said, "We have got someone here". Later, Prakasananda told his disciples that Guru's statement that day was the real trigger for him to join the Sivagiri Mutt.

Swami Prakashananda joined the Sivagiri monastery at the age of 23 as the disciple of Swami Sankarananda, a direct disciple of Sree Narayana Guru. Prakashananda received 'deeksha' at the age of 35 and had served at the Aruvippuram and Kunnumpara mutts under the ashram.

He became the general secretary of the trust in 1970 and 1977. Later, he served as its president from 1995 to 97 and for 10 years since 2006. He established the Sivagiri Brahma Vidyalayam in 1975.

The soft-spoken Prakashananda's tenure at the helm of the organisation was noted for several initiatives to propagate the life and message of Sree Narayana Guru.

Jagan shoots off letter to PM over Krishna water row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Vijayawada

DAYS after Telangana chief minister called for a 50:50 ratio in sharing of Krishna water, Andhra Pradesh chief minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy has shot off another letter, the second in a week's span, to Prime Minister Narendra Modi complaining about the 'illegal' and 'indiscriminate' drawl of water by the neighbouring state for power generation in violation of water sharing agreements and protocol. Explaining how the 'whimsical acts' of Telangana were resulting in wastage of precious water and depriving AP of its rightful share, the CM has once again urged Modi to notify the jurisdiction of Krishna River Management Board (KRMB) and take over the operation of all common reservoirs.

While intimating the PM that no effective steps were taken despite repeated complaints to the Union Ministry of Jal Shakti (MoJS) and KRMB about the 'unauthorised' projects by Telangana on River Krishna, Jagan claimed that KRMB was not effective in discharging its duties. "... [KRMB] is not acting in the manner it is expected to when it comes to protecting the legitimate interests of Andhra Pradesh," he alleged.

The letter, addressed to the PM on Wednesday, comes in the wake of raging water war as Telangana government continues to use Krishna water from common projects for hydel power generation, which AP has repeatedly opposed claiming it was resulting in letting surplus water at Prakasam Barrage waste into the sea.

"The intention of Telanagana government is to deprive the State of Andhra Pradesh its due share of allocated water as the drawls will be delayed considerably and the water is being wasted by allowing it to surplus into sea. As such it was already requested that the KRMB may be directed to account for all these unauthorised drawls by Telangana against the agreed allocations of 299 TMC to Telangana state," Jagan noted.

The CM also appended the agreement entered into by both the states in June 2015, on how to share Krishna water.

Locals rescue 200 stray dogs from inundated villages

KV SAILENDRA @Rajamahendravaram

AT a time when they themselves have to leave their houses and belongings with the water level rising in River Godavari at Polavaram project, people of submergence villages have shown their kindness by going to the rescue of stray dogs in the villages.

Tribals and non-tribals of the submergence villages of Devipatnam and Thoyyeru were shifted to the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Colony at Sri Krishnudipalem a few days ago.

When some people went to their villages to get their belongings on Wednesday, they found the stray dogs, which are solely dependent on the food provided by locals, starving. They were seen barking nonstop as the backwaters of Godavari submerged most part of the villages. Moved by their plight, they had decided to shift the stray dogs to a safer place. But the road connectivity to the villages was completely cut off.

Devipatnam sarpanch Rajamani and his friends pooled ₹10,000 and engaged a mechanised boat and dog catchers from Korukonda to shift the strays from the submergence villages.

Some youngsters formed a committee and they too chipped in by procuring nets and other relief material. They later went to Devipatnam and Thoyyeru villages along with dog catchers. About 200 stray dogs were caught using nets, and brought to Dandanti in the mechanised boat. "It took two hours to reach the villages by boat and shift the dogs to the safer place," the sarpanch said.

PANDEMIC NOT OVER YET, PEOPLE SHOULD NOT GET COMPLACENT

Photographs and reports of thousands of tourists enjoying the salubrious climes of hill stations unnerved the government to such an extent that on Tuesday, it had to remind the public that the Covid-19 pandemic was not yet over and they must not drop guard. Prolonged lockdowns and restrictions on social activities such as eating out, weddings and public gatherings have perhaps led to this. But as the government has warned, the footloose tourists must remember that health and safety come first, and leisure and fun can come later. While public health lies in the domain of the government, the people, too, have responsibilities that they owe to themselves. Every citizen has a duty to perform by following strict regimens required to control and stave off the virus. The job of controlling the disease cannot be left only to the government. Those thronging the hills to escape the heat of the plains must remember that the heavens will not fall if they skip a vacation; rather, falling prey to the virus can potentially be life-changing. Irresponsible behaviour is not limited only to the tourists. In Delhi, popular markets have had to be shut down after reopening as they failed to follow the norms of social distancing. The complaints by traders and market associations that it is the job of the authorities to enforce the norms are clearly misplaced. It is equally incumbent upon the shopkeepers to ensure that their customers wear masks, keep a healthy distance and not overcrowd.

While the government was quite quick to raise the red flag on the tourists, it must be remembered that it failed during the Kumbh Mela in Haridwar and the Assembly elections recently, both of which contributed to the second wave in no insignificant manner. While the government was silent on the Kumbh because it felt that cancelling the event would hurt religious sentiments, it repeatedly maintained that the elections were a constitutional requirement. It turned a blind eye solely because the BJP felt it had a good chance to wrest power in West Bengal. This sort of double standards will not help its own cause of controlling the pandemic.

DON'T IGNORE NEEDS OF THE DISABLED

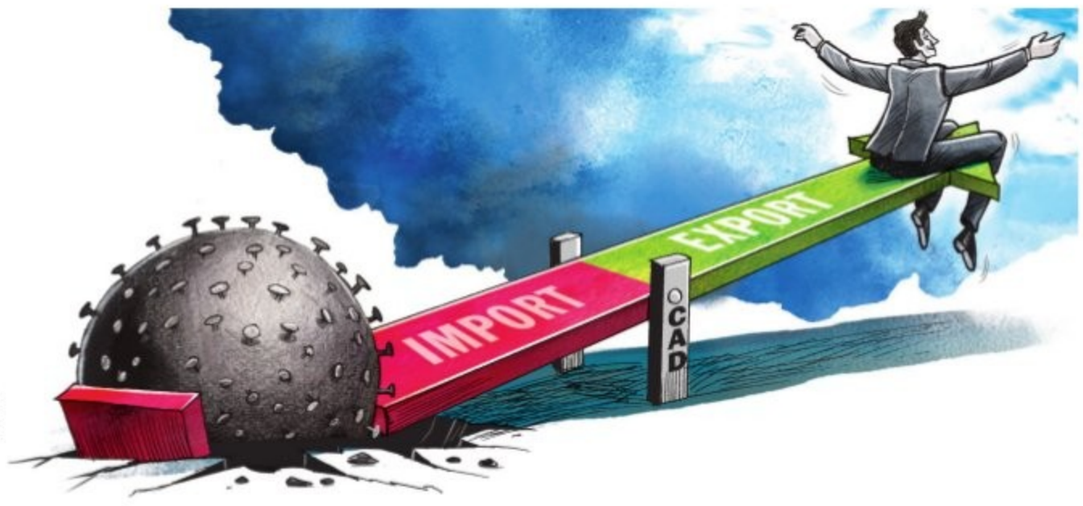
Recently, the Madras High Court issued two orders related to the accessibility of public facilities for persons with disabilities. In the first, it pulled up the state for purchasing buses that are inaccessible to disabled persons despite repeated HC orders mandating that all the buses be accessible. In the second order, it stressed that all public buildings must be made accessible to disabled persons and must have disabled-friendly toilets. That the court has had to repeatedly order the state to do what it is already bound to do by the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act of 2016 is a damning indictment of Tamil Nadu's treatment of disabled persons. Of course, TN is hardly alone in this. From the Union government's websites to the very court buildings from which such orders are made, few, if any, of India's facilities are accessible to persons living with disabilities.

The pandemic, which has affected everyone over the past two years, has further marginalised persons with disabilities, many of whom are already caught in a vicious loop of illiteracy and poverty, the direct results of an inaccessible environment. The irony is that most people will experience disability in some form or the other at some stage of our lives and most of us will experience the disabilities brought on by old age. Yet, be it bollards on sidewalks that make them inaccessible to wheelchair users or jails refusing a person with Parkinson's a sipper, the needs of the disabled are too often an afterthought.

An accessible environment must not be seen as a sop or concession made to a proportion of our population but as a right that allows a person to live a full life. It is high time that planners and policymakers begin to centre the experiences of those pushed to the margins and build infrastructure that incorporates their needs. Such infrastructure will benefit and provide a better quality of life to all people.

Coming after 17 years, is a current account surplus an indicator that all is well with the Indian economy? Or does it bode even worse than a deficit, especially during these pandemic times?

IS INDIA'S CURRENT ACCOUNT SURPLUS A REASON TO REJOICE?



AMIT BANDRE

TULSI JAYAKUMAR
Professor, Economics and Chairperson, Family Managed Business at Bhavans SPJIMR

The news of a current account surplus of 0.9% of GDP ($24 billion) in Fiscal Year 2020-2021 comes amid concerns regarding other macroeconomic parameters—the GDP, employment and inflation. Coming after 17 years, is such a surplus an indicator that all is well with the Indian economy and that we have finally turned the corner? Or is it that the surplus on our current account bodes even worse than having a current account deficit (CAD), especially during these pandemic times? The truth may be closer to the second explanation, with the surplus indicative of deeper problems.

The current account balance is based on India's receipts from and payments to the rest of the world for four items: goods, services, primary income and secondary income. Based on the balance of these four items, the current account could either show a surplus or a deficit.

The chief contributor to a CAD is normally the trade deficit. With India being a large importer of gold, oil and capital goods, India's imports of goods outstrip its exports to the rest of the world, leading generally to a negative trade balance. In 2020-2021, however, India's trade deficit shrank by 35% compared to the previous year [from (-)$157.5 billion to (-)$102.2 billion]. The shrinking trade deficit contributed in large measure to the current account balance turning to positive. Understanding such shrinkage in trade deficit, thus, is key to understanding India's recent current account surplus.

India's trade deficit shrank since imports compressed to a far greater extent than exports. Thus, while exports shrank by 7.5%, imports went down by a whopping 16.6%. The decline in exports was not unexpected, with the pandemic-led recession and restrictions in the rest of the world. It is the sharp decline in Indian imports and the components of such shrinkage that are worrisome and are related to India's steep reduction in the GDP and the associated demand.

There was a sharp decline in the petroleum, oil and lubricants (POL) imports by 58%, from $130.6 billion in 2019-20 to $82.6 billion in 2020-21. While crude prices were extremely volatile and the average annual price of India's crude oil basket (COB) for April 2020-February 2021, at $42.72 per barrel, was 30% lower than what it was in 2019-20 (and the lowest since 2004-05), the decline has been on account of quantum of imports as well. Such a steep decline in POL and capital goods imports can be traced to the slump in demand and industrial production, especially following the pandemic. Thus, the reduction in trade deficit should not be confused with an improvement in India's competitiveness or even the nation moving on to the path of self-reliance.

As regards the second item, India's service exports did well and contributed to a surplus of $88.6 billion, despite the slump in travel services. While India suffered a negative impact of (-)$3.0 billion on account of travel, it seems business and education-related travel out of the country continued far more than that of corresponding foreign travel here. The impact of business and education-related travel thus was negative. This was partly made up for through a positive impact of personal and health-related travel of foreigners to India.

> The decline in exports was not unexpected, with the pandemic-led recession and restrictions in the rest of the world. It is the sharp decline in Indian imports and the components of such shrinkage that are worrisome ... The current account surplus of the type seen is neither permanent nor desirable

India's software service exports continued to provide a safety net to the current account, contributing $89.7 billion of surplus. Meanwhile, home-bound Indians provided the growth drivers for streaming platforms such as Amazon Prime, Netflix and Disney-Hotstar. India thus consumed a whole lot more of cultural content through imports than what it exported, with personal cultural and recreational services recording (-)$0.474 billion.

India's primary income within its current account was influenced largely by its status as a preferred destination for foreign investments, both foreign direct investments (FDI) and foreign portfolio investments (FPI). A large positive inflow of such investments on the financial account, paradoxically, results in an equally large negative impact on the current account. Thus, India paid for its $44 billion worth of FDI inflows and $36.1 billion of portfolio receipts in the form of a large payout of $41.3 billion by way of overseas investment income.

Interestingly, however, the outflows on account of FDI and FPI were not spread across equally, with outflows of income on account of interest and equity far greater for direct investments than portfolio investments. Thus, the $44 billion worth of foreign direct investment resulted in an outflow of $27.4 billion investment income, compared to the $6.8 billion worth of outflows on account of the $36.1 billion worth of portfolio investments. It appears then that while the FDI is supposed to be a better source of financial flows due to its long-term nature and its employment generation effects, its negative impact on the current account for India has been far greater than that of portfolio flows. While remittances—the chief component of secondary income—continued to be positive and contributed a $73.6 billion surplus to the current account, there was a decline in this item compared to 2019-20.

Thus, the surplus on the current account of the type seen is neither permanent nor desirable. It does not give a reason to rejoice. India must look at the contributors to individual items within the current account to see the implications of a surplus/deficit in each and work at making our current account balance genuinely stronger.

RAY WAS NOT JUST A LEGENDARY FILMMAKER

M C CHATTOPADHYAYA
Former Head, Department of Chemistry, University of Allahabad

The Indian renaissance, which began in the 19th century and was largely due to the efforts of Raja Ram Mohan Roy (1772-1833), saw the birth of several eminent personalities like Rabindranath Tagore, Swami Vivekananda and Mahatma Gandhi in the decade 1860-1869. Upendra Kishore Roy Chowdhary, born in 1863, was one such versatile person. He had a press and processing studio, and was interested in good printing and reproduction of pictures. He also wrote stories for children and illustrated them. He published a coloured children's magazine titled Sandesh in Bengali. His son Sukumar Ray was also a man of several virtues. He became famous for his humorous skits and nonsensical rhymes. He also illustrated his published work. After the death of Upendra Kishore in 1915, Sukumar used to edit Sandesh.

On 2 May 1921, Satyajit Ray was born in his ancestral house, 100 Garpar Road, Calcutta. Unfortunately, his father Sukumar died soon after, on 10 September 1923. Satyajit's mother Suprabha Ray then shifted along with her son to the house of her younger brother Prashant Kumar Das at Bhawanipur. Satyajit, after schooling, graduated from the Presidency College, Calcutta, with honours in Economics.

Right from his younger days, Satyajit was fond of reading novels of popular writers and collected records of Western composers like Mozart, Bach and Beethoven. He was fond of English magazines and comics. His interest and understanding of Western classical music later on helped him in filmmaking. He studied art for a short time at Visva-Bharati, Shantiniketan. Under masters like Nandlal Bose and Binod Behari Mukherjee, he got lessons on various aspects of art.

Satyajit inherited his writing skills from his family. He wrote his first story titled Abstraction in Amrita Bazar Patrika (18 May 1941). Although many know Satyajit just through his films, he was talented in many other fields. He showed his writing skills in works of art and as a music composer and magazine editor. Most of his fiction works have originally appeared in periodicals before being collected and published as books. He also translated his father's rhymes in English and edited several books.

After the liquidation of the family publishing house U. Ray and Sons, the publication of Sandesh came to a halt. However, Sukumar's younger brother Subinoy managed to revive the publication of Sandesh for a brief period (1931-1933). Satyajit revived the magazine again in May 1961. He spent lots of time in editing, managing and illustrating for Sandesh. The magazine proved to be a source of creative inspiration for him.

In 1943, Satyajit joined the British advertising agency D.J. Keymer Ltd. as a commercial artist. His training at Visva-Bharati helped him in visualising the product to be advertised. He could observe life and nature from different perspectives. At Visva-Bharati Library, he had access to the works of Western painters. His approach in designing impressed the owner, who promoted him to art director in 1950 and subsequently sent him to the UK for further training. During his stay in London, he worked with Benson, an affiliate of D.J. Keymer. As a visualiser and later an art director for the firm, Satyajit designed newspaper and magazine campaigns for several products. He also got an opportunity in book designing. He designed the cover of several books, including an edition of Jawaharlal Nehru's The Discovery of India.

Sukumar's cousin Nitin Bose was a well-known film director. So Satyajit got exposure to cinema produced in India at that time. He was not satisfied with the state of Indian cinema and wrote an article titled 'What is wrong with Indian films?' published in The Statesman in 1948. He along with Chidananda Das Gupta founded the Calcutta Film Society in 1947. This culminated in the Federation of Film Societies of India in 1959. The result of this movement saw several outstanding filmmakers emerge in India. Satyajit remained President of Film Societies of India till his death. He also assisted famous French film director Jean Renoir when he came to shoot his film The River (1951). After the Calcutta Film Society was formed, Satyajit was able to watch the films of eminent directors like Eisenstein, Pudovkin, Robert Flaherty, Marcel Carne and others. Further, during his five-month stay in London, he was able to watch over 90 films.

> Although many know Satyajit Ray just through his films, he was talented in many other fields. He showed his writing skills in works of art and as a music composer and magazine editor. He designed the cover of several books including an edition of Jawaharlal Nehru's The Discovery of India

On his return to India, Satyajit was asked to design the cover of Pather Panchali, a novel written by Bibhutibhushan Bandopadhyaya. He went through the novel and thought of making a film based on it. Since Satyajit was working for D.J. Keymar, the shooting of this low-budget film was scheduled on weekends. He had a set of devoted technical personnel in his unit. To meet the modest budget, Satyajit pawned his insurance policy and his wife's ornaments. With all available resources he could complete only 40% of the film. Later on, the West Bengal government provided the funds for its completion and the film was released on 26 August 1955 for 19 days. The WB government made a net profit of ₹1,65,917. The film won the international award at Cannes Film Festival as "Best Human Document". It was this film that put India on the map of world cinema. Noted filmmaker Akira Kurosawa observed, "Pather Panchali, for me, marks the beginning of the true Indian cinema."

What followed were the two other films that completed the trilogy, Aparajito (1956) and Apur Sansar (1959). They formed the epic that moved from the village to the city, from the past, remembered, to the present, as experience—from the ordered structure of rural life to the anarchic experience of the metropolitan milieu, full of uncertainty and apprehension of the future. It was the universalisation of a local situation that evoked, from leading film directors and critics, surprisingly emotional responses. This trilogy remains an expression, an interpretation and record of humanity's longing to understand the grand design of life and living.

During the span of 36 years of filmmaking, Satyajit made 36 films. These include long and short feature films, television films and documentaries. Most of the feature films made by him are adaptations of established literary works. In 1962, he made his first colour film Kanchenjungha, which was based on his own idea. The duration of events shown coincides with the film's running time. The films Sonar Kella (1974) and Joy Baba Felunath (1979) are based on his own novels.

In most of his early films, Satyajit engaged Subrata Mitra as cameraman but later on he switched over to Saumendu Ray. Saumendu used to arrange lights in sets and facilitated the shooting process but Satyajit used to handle the camera.

In his first six films, Satyajit engaged virtuosos like Pt. Ravishankar, Ustad Vilayat Khan and Ustad Ali Akbar Khan to score the background music. In 1961, he paid tribute to Tagore on his birth centenary year by making the film Teen Kanya based on the latter's three short stories. He scored the music himself. He continued this practice till his last film. He also scored background music for other film directors. This is my tribute to the man, who was not just a legendary filmmaker but a multifaceted personality, on his birth centenary year.

Surprises in reshuffle

The massive reshuffle of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Cabinet will be remembered not for who all made the cut, but for those who were removed. Ministers like Ravi Shankar Prasad and Prakash Javadekar, some of the most visible faces of the government, resigned ahead of the oath-taking ceremony. While many who were shown the door were non-performers, that doesn't seem to be the criteria for removals as many other such ministers are still part of the Cabinet. The PM also seems to have deviated from his oft-repeated doctrine of minimum government, maximum governance, given the huge size of his new Cabinet.

Great loss to film industry

The death of the iconic actor Dilip Kumar is a great loss to the Indian film industry. He kept churning out hit after hit in his career spanning more than five decades. His performances were so powerful and presence so impactful that many actors considered it great fortune to share the screen with this legend.
R Sekar, Chennai

His era is tinged with gold

In the sad demise of Dilip Kumar, we have lost a thespian par excellence. He breathed life into a variety of different characters on the silver screen. His era is one tinged with gold in the annals of Indian cinema. May he rest in peace.
C M Umanath, Kozhikode

Rated high internationally

India has lost one of her greatest sons who entertained millions of cinema lovers all over the world. The fact that internationally acclaimed British director David Lean initially offered the prestigious role of Sherif Ali in his 1962 film Lawrence of Arabia (which he declined) shows how high he was rated among talented actors at a global level. His demise is a big loss to the cultural world.

GOP's shameful behaviour

This is with reference to A grateful nation remembers Narasimha Rao (Jul 7). It is shameful that the Congress, which refused to allow his body inside the party headquarters for a final farewell, is not ready even now to commemorate his service as a loyal leader. His efforts to restructure the Indian economy were commendable.
K Deviprasad, Koduvally

Nation indebted to him

The article is a wonderful tribute to former prime minister Narasimha Rao. The nation will always be indebted to this visionary leader who saved the country from economic morass and sowed the seeds of liberalisation. He also crushed the secessionist forces in Punjab with an iron fist.

Cutting a sorry figure in handling of Covid and tough time in courts lead to axing of ministers

MANISH ANAND @New Delhi

A dozen Union Ministers on Wednesday seemingly paid the price for the perceived erosion of "Brand Modi" within the BJP, in the wake of the ferocious second wave of the Covid-19 pandemic. Harsh Vardhan, Ravi Shankar Prasad and Prakash Javadekar led the pack of ministers axed from the council of ministers, with BJP leaders attributing these ousters to their failure during the second wave, which ravaged all parts of the country, with heavy toll of the people.

Vardhan had been in the line of fire apparently for not anticipating the second wave of the pandemic, even while the ministers and the BJP leaders made a chorus to hail the leadership of the Prime Minister for "victory against the pandemic" despite Maharashtra, Kerala and a few other states giving warning signals.

He headed the Group of Ministers on Covid-19. Yet, India was seen wanting in the vaccination drive, besides flip-flop on vaccine procurement policy.

Ravi Shankar Prasad

Prakash Javadekar

Then, the West Bengal Assembly elections and Kumbh Mela celebrations in Haridwar were attributed for the sudden spike in Covid-19 cases.

The BJP leaders claimed that Prasad, 66, as the Union Minister for Law and Justice, also faced axe from the Cabinet due to the Centre facing embarrassing moments in the courts. There were times when the government was sweating out to explain its vaccine procurement policy and oxygen management when people struggled to get hospital beds in various parts of the country. The BJP leaders, while explaining the axing of the senior ministers, claimed that "Brand Modi" took a hit, with the Central government seen in the eyes of the people as passing the buck to the state governments in the management of the second wave of the pandemic.

Javadekar, 70, being the Information and Broadcasting Minister, is seen within the BJP to have failed to deliver as the government's first spokesperson, while the image of the Centre took a beating during the second wave of Covid-19. He was seen as distant from the media, while the government got much of "the bad press during the pandemic", said a senior BJP functionary.

While Ramesh Pokhriyal "Nishank" had been admitted in the AIIMS for post-Covid complications, BJP leaders said that the Ministry of Education needed "a little more dynamism".

Sadananda Gowda, again, was seen not active in the government. Gowda was made the Minister for Railways by the Prime Minister in his first term, but he had to shed the portfolio due to "lack of dynamism".

Santosh Gangwar, Babul Supriyo, Sanjay Dhotre, Rattan Lal Kataria, Pratap Chandra Sarangi, Debasree Chaudhary were among the Ministers of State who lost their positions in the council of ministers.

Negative publicity in second wave cuts short Javadekar's innings

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

SENIOR BJP leader and Union Minister of Information and Broadcasting Prakash Javadekar was among the 12 ministers who resigned on Wednesday. Javadekar appears to have paid the price of negative publicity, which the Modi government faced during the second wave of the pandemic.

The departure of Javadekar, who was also the environment minister, is a political setback for him because he was the government's spokesperson and had for years shaped narratives presented to the media.

Some of the headlines in global media that brought India into shame was The Guardian's 'The system has collapsed; India's descent into covid hell', New York Times' 'India's Covid-19 Crisis Shakes Modi's Image of Strength', UK Financial Times' 'More funeral pyres will burn unless Modi takes accountability'. During the peak of second wave, CNN said: 'PM Modi could have prevented India's devastating Covid-19 crisis, critics say.'

An opinion piece in The Guardian said: 'While India is desperate for oxygen, its politicians deny there's a problem', an editorial in The Atlantic was headlined, 'India Is What Happens When Rich People Do Nothing', French newspaper Le Monde's carried an editorial titled 'Narendra Modi's lack of foresight caused the crisis'. Time magazine had an opinion piece titled, 'It isn't just Modi, India's media must also take responsibility for Covid-19 crisis'.

The other senior minister whose exit came as a surprise to many was Union Law and Information & Technology Minister Ravi Shankar Prasad. He had lately been locked in a bitter row with Twitter over new IT rules. Last month, he was even briefly locked out of his Twitter account.

The exit of these two ministers also marks a generational change, sources in the Bhartiya Janata Party said. Union Health Minister Harsh Vardhan also quit, with deputy Ashwani Chaube. The resignations were viewed as an admission of the government's mishandling of the Covid crisis, particularly in the second wave when the world saw the plight India was in.

Resignations of Union Health Minister & MoS Health is a confession that the Modi government has utterly failed in managing the pandemic

No power to bargain, JD-U settles for one

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

FINALLY, Bihar's ruling JD-U has joined the Union Cabinet, although the party has to be content with only one berth. It has 16 MPs. LJP got one berth. The BJP already had one.

The JD-U had to accept what it was offered in 2019. Then also, the name of Munger MP Rajiv Ranjan Singh alias Lalan Singh was dropped, hours before the oath-taking ceremony. As a result, JD-U refused to join the cabinet of ministers. Chief Minister Nitish Kumar had announced not to join the Central cabinet, without getting 'proportional representation'.

But this time, BJP accorded equal political weightage to JD-U and the spilt group of five MPs of LJP. The JD-U had bargained for at least two cabinet berths and one state minister, in order to accommodate Rajiv Lalan and another. But efforts to convince BJP went in vain. Prime Minister Narendra Modi met the new faces and asked them to continue with whatever number of berths are given to their parties.

In Patna, political analyst AK Mishra said: "The real factor that made JD-U accept the offer of only one berth was its reduced political stature in the state after the Assembly elections. Had the JD-U come out stronger, it would not have agreed to only one berth".

The state's principal opposition RJD attacked Nitish Kumar, accusing him of being unable to rise above caste considerations.

Rane inclusion in cabinet signal of BJP's intent to take on Shiv Sena

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

HAVING inducted former Maharashtra CM Narayan Rane as a cabinet minister in Narendra Modi's cabinet on Wednesday, BJP seems to have lost hopes of joining hands with Shiv Sena again. It has decided to expand and strengthen the base of the party in Maharashtra on its own ahead of BMC polls.

Rane is a mass Maratha leader in the Konkan belt. He started as a local Shiv Sena Shakha president and became the chief minister. After the rise of Uddhav Thackeray, Rane left Sena and joined Congress. Now, he is a Rajya Sabha member of BJP, which wants to use him as a trump card against Sena.

BJP has also given an opportunity to MP Kapil Patil. Besides, Bharati Pawar, BJP MP who belongs to the tribal community, and BJP's Rajya Sabha MP Bhagwat Karad have also been made part of the cabinet.

This decision to induct Rane, Patil, Pawar and Karad clearly shows BJP is not only eyeing social engineering, but also preparing for a fight against Sena in its strongholds like Mumbai, Thane and Konkan. Rane has significant influence in the Konkan region.

"Dropping Prakash Javdekar and inducting Rane means the leaders who can expand the party base have been given importance ahead of the BMC and 2024 Lok Sabha polls. BJP has decided to strengthen the hand of Rane so that he can fight against Sena. Rane is a known and strong voice against Sena. When he was taken in Congress and given the revenue ministry, Congress had pitched him against Sena. There are few leaders who can take on Sena and its fierce and aggressive cadre. Rane is one of them. The BMC elections will be the litmus test for Rane's leadership," said a political observer.

The cabinet expansion has also ended the talk of elevation of Devendra Fadnavis in the Centre after losing power in Maharashtra. However, the BJP leadership decided to keep Fadnavis in the state and provide mass leaders like Rane with his support so that the party can fight strongly against the three-party alliance.

Challenges aplenty on tricky track for new health minister

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @New Delhi

MANSUKH Mandaviya is India's new health minister. HARSH Vardhan's departure from the post hardly came as a surprise. Most felt that he is being made a fall guy even though the onus of mishandling of the Covid second wave does not stop with him alone.

This was the second stint of Vardhan, an ENT doctor himself, as the Union health minister. Ironically, both ended abruptly. The first lasted only seven months during the first term of the Narendra Modi government in 2014.

There is a major difference between the two departures — the first was sudden but quiet, the second is seen as a punishment for failing to coordinate better with the states and giving false assurances. At one point before the torrential second wave, Vardhan had said the disease was looking at an "end game".

Those watching his work closely said the government is aware that the response to Covid-19 management has been inadequate and has led to major dissatisfaction. "In the first wave, the government was unprepared in the beginning but it went somewhat better because of the low number of cases and coordination with states worked fine," said a member of the national Covid task force who did not want to be named. "However, everything that could go wrong went haywire in the second. Partly, it was also Vardhan's fault who did not read the signs well, was not assertive and was confrontational with the states."

'Needs careful navigation'

Public health researcher Oommen John said: "Legacies of redundant health information systems, lack of data for proactive policy and a large workforce of underpaid health workforce will need to be carefully navigated."

Other experts stressed that while the second wave has subsided substantially, there will still be a massive challenge facing the new minister. "This pandemic has broken the trust in the government health system and that trust needs to be brought back," said health systems and policy specialist Chandrakant Lahariya. "The new minister will need to recommit himself to implement proposals that have been announced in the last 16 months."

Health economist Rijo M John, who has been monitoring the situation in India, said the major challenge for the health minister will be vaccinating as many people as possible with the short supply and before another wave. "There is also increasing vaccine hesitancy, especially among the elderly. In the interest of limiting the severity of future waves, vaccines may need to be taken to doorsteps."

Modi 2.0 Cabinet ticks boxes of caste, region & experience

Another feature is presence of 14 ministers below the age of 50; fair representation to women as well with seven more inductees in the Council of Ministers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

WITH a diverse mix of former civil servants, lawyers, doctors, MBAs and engineers, the Modi 2.0 Cabinet has struck a fine balance of caste, regional representation and experience.

A look at the expanded Cabinet shows ministers who have rich administrative experience — 46 have worked in the Central government, four are former chief ministers and 18 are former ministers in states.

It also has a mix of experienced professionals — three lawyers, six doctors, five engineers, seven civil servants, seven with research degrees and three with degrees in business. Seven of the Union ministers have a PhD degree, three MBA degree holders and 68 graduates.

With seven more inductees, the revamped Cabinet boasts of 11 women ministers representing nine states.

Another feature is the presence of 14 ministers below the age of 50 in the new Cabinet which was announced on Wednesday evening. Post reshuffle, the average age of the Modi Cabinet has come down to 58 years.

The reshuffle took place after a detailed performance evaluation of the ministers by the Prime Minister. In the new ministry, there are record 12 ministers belonging to the Scheduled Castes, who are from eight states — Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Maharashtra, West Bengal, Karnataka, Rajasthan and Tamil Nadu.

Besides, 27 of the ministers are from Other Backward Classes, five of whom are in the Cabinet. These leaders are from across 15 states and 19 communities, including Yadav, Kurmi, Jat, Gurjar and Khandayat, among others.

There are a record eight ministers — three of them in the Cabinet — who belong to the Scheduled Tribes and come from Arunachal Pradesh, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, West Bengal, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Odisha and Assam.

The new ministry also cuts across communities as there is one Muslim, one Sikh, one Christian and two Buddhist ministers.

Soft spoken Kishan Reddy gains big, gets charge of three ministries

SANA SHAKIL @New Delhi

President Ram Nath Kovind administers oath to G Kishan Reddy as a Cabinet Minister at the swearing-in ceremony at Rashtrapati Bhavan on Wednesday | PTI

SENIOR BJP leader G Kishan Reddy became the first Union Cabinet minister from Telanagana when he was sworn-in along with 42 other MPs in the union cabinet expansion ceremony held in Rashtrapati Bhawan on Wednesday.

The Secunderabad MP, who was promoted on Wednesday after serving as the Minister of State for Home Affairs for the past two years, is believed to be a trusted lieutenant of senior BJP leader Amit Shah.

Reddy was assigned three ministries in the Cabinet rejig — Culture, Tourism and Development of North Eastern Region (DONER) ministries.

Fondly known as Kishananna, Reddy is said to have been handpicked by Shah to be his deputy when the latter took charge as the union home minister in 2019. Shah's confidence in Reddy was visible in how responsibilities were divided between Reddy and his fellow MoS Nityanand Rai.

Reddy was allocated the important divisions in the Union home ministry such as Jammu and Kashmir, Left-wing extremism, the Northeast, Union Territories, women safety, internal security, cyber-information security, counter-terrorism and counter-radicalisation. Rai was left with administration division, border management, disaster division, police division and the financial division.

It is pertinent to point out that Shah entrusted Reddy to table some of the key Bills including the National Investigation Act (Amendment) Bill 2019, the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (Amendment) Bill 2019, the Government of NCT of Delhi (Amendment) Bill 2021 and the J&K Reorganisation (Amendment) Bill, 2021.

Reddy also filled in the shoes of his senior minister after Shah fell ill last year and was out of action for nearly a fortnight. Reddy was earlier a three-time MLA and BJP floor Leader in Telangana and (undivided) Andhra Pradesh assemblies. Reddy has served key positions in BJP too. He has served as BJPs state president in the undivided state of AP and also Telangana.

Known for his calm demeanour, Reddy impressed the BJP brass when he spoke aggressively against the Chandrashekar Rao's government's proposal for a 12% quota for Muslims in educational institutes and government jobs in Telangana. In 2017, Reddy also demanded a CBI probe into an alleged "beef mafia" operating in Hyderabad.

With this elevation, Kishan Reddy will be the first person in the union ministerial position after the formation of Telangana. Only five people from Telangana have served as union ministers — Marri Chenna Reddy, G Venkata Swamy, S Jaipal Reddy, K Chandrashekar Rao and PV Narasimha Rao who went on to become India's 9th Prime Minister.

JD-U kills two birds with one stone in Bihar

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @Patna

DID Bihar CM Nitish Kumar, sacrifice the second ministerial berth of JD-U quota to end the nascent political career of Chirag Paswan? According to political experts, the JD-U sacrificed the second ministerial berth in order to accommodate Pashupati Kumar Paras of the LJP's splinter group in order to prevent the entry of Chirag Paswan from the LJP quota.

In fact, political experts believe that the inclusion of Paras in the Union Cabinet was possible only when the JD-U sacrificed on its behalf. For this, Nitish played a big role to bring Paras to Delhi.

Sources said Chirag was supposed to be the PM's natural choice because he is still considered to be close to Modi. The JD-U had allegedly engineered a spilt in the LJP with five MPs headed by Paras.

And with the vertical split in the LJP, the next strategy began to 'teach a lesson' to Chirag, who had played politics against the JD-U in the last year's Bihar elections.

With the sacrifice of a second ministerial berth, JD-U succeeded in killing two birds with one stone — ousting Chirag from the NDA fold and damaging the BJP's Paswan votes. "It goes without saying that JD-U might have got only one ministerial berth, but it has succeeded in playing politics against both Chirag and BJP. Now, a strong message has gone among the Paswan community that the BJP just used and threw Chirag," said a political analysts, adding that politics will take an unprecedented turn in Bihar now with which way Chirag goes ahead.

It is speculated that Chirag will join the Mahagatvandhan which, the observer said, will end up damaging the BJP in the eastern state.

NISHAD Party gets raw deal from Centre

Apart from the Jat community which did not find place in the revamped Union Council of Ministers, another notable exception was BJP ally NISHAD Party, whose president Sanjay Nishad has recently tried to play pressure politics with the BJP, demanding that he be declared deputy chief minister face of the ruling alliance while going into the 2022 polls.

Seven ministers from poll-bound Uttar Pradesh; OBC & SC get lion's share

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

WITH an eye on the 2022 Assembly elections, Prime Minister Narendra Modi inducted a maximum seven new ministers from Uttar Pradesh in the Union Council of Ministers.

Knowing well that the non-Yadav OBC and non-Jatav Scheduled Castes (SC) had played an integral role in BJP's historic 312 seats in 2017, the Wednesday's Cabinet expansion kept in mind addressing the caste arithmetic of UP, as barring one new minister, Ajay Kumar Mishra 'Teni,' all others hailed from the OBC or the SC segment.

With the Patel (Kurmi) caste being second only to Yadavs in numbers in the OBC, two new inductees Pankaj Chaudhary and Anupriya Singh Patel are from the same caste, which has traditionally aligned with the BJP.

The return of Anupriya (daughter of powerful Kurmi community leader late Sonelal Patel) in Team Modi is being seen as a timely effort by the BJP to keep Apna Dal (S) in good humour.

The third OBC leader to make to the Union Cabinet is BL Verma. He belongs to the influential Lodh Rajput community which has a strong presence in central UP and Braj region.The three new SC inductees are Kaushal Kishore (who is considered close to Amit Shah), five-time MPs Bhanu Pratap Singh Verma and SPS Baghel.

Through the re-induction of powerful SC leader Dr Virender Kumar (presently the third time MP from Tikamgarh) of Madhya Pradesh's Bundelkhand region, the BJP has tried to strike a chord with the SC voters of adjoining Bundelkhand region of UP also.

Keeping Brahmin vote in mind, the NDA inducted two-time MP from Lakhimpur Kheri seat Ajay Kumar Mishra 'Teni.'

The Cabinet expansion, however, didn't have any new minister from the Jat caste which is at the forefront of the nationwide farmers agitation.

'ED summon smacks of vindictiveness'

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

THE Gupkar Alliance has termed the ED summon to PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti's mother as "highly humiliating" alleging it is nothing but part of vindictive policies "to silence the genuine demand for the reversal of unilateral and unconstitutional decisions of August 5, 2019".

Gupkar Alliance spokesman and CPI(M) leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami said summoning of Mehooba's mother and widow of former Union Home Minister late Mufti Mohammad Sayeed by the ED is highly humiliating and there are not enough words to condemn such coercive acts.

Mehbooba's mother Gulshan Nazir has been directed by the ED to appear for questioning in a money laundering case at its zonal office at Rajbagh on July 14.

The summon warned that in case she fails to appear, she would be liable to penal proceedings under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. The ED summon to Gulshan was issued hours after PDP declined to meet the visiting Delimitation Commission.

Tarigami said muzzling the voices of dissent by using probe agencies against political opponents is unacceptable. "This is nothing but part of vindictive policies to suppress dissent and disagreement and to silence the genuine demand for the reversal of unilateral and unconstitutional decisions of August 5, 2019," the CPI(M) leader said.

Nandigram case: Judge exits, fines Mamata ₹5L

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

A Calcutta High Court judge on Wednesday recused himself from hearing Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee's pettition challenging the Nandigram election result, and imposed a cost of ₹5 lakh on her for the manner in which the application seeking recusal was moved.

In the order, Justice Kaushik Chanda said it was preposterous to think that a judge will not be able to do his duty without a sense of detachment if he or she has political inclinations and described TMC's act of uploading photographs showing his presence with BJP leaders as "calculated psychological offensive".

Earlier, Mamata's counsel Abhishek Manu Singhvi had appealed for transfer of the the case from Justice Chanda's court citing his proximity to a number of BJP leaders.

"I am unable to persuade myself to agree to the proposition as advanced by Mr. Singhvi that there is a conflict of interest in the matter…The argument of Mr. Singhvi takes too sombre a view of the integrity of a judge," Chanda observed in his order. "When a litigant raises the question of bias against a judge, who has taken the oath to discharge his duties without any fear or favour, the test has to be a real likelihood of bias or real danger of bias. The appearance of impartiality, in such a case, should not be viewed from the perspective of a common man."

The calculated psychological offensive and vilification adopted to seek recusal need to firmly repulsed, the judge said.

Ex-Union minister's wife murdered at Delhi residence, two arrested

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE wife of the late Union minister P Rangarajan Kumaramangalam was smothered to death during an attempted robbery at her home in southwest Delhi's Vasant Vihar, police said on Wednesday.

Kitty Kumaramangalam, 67, stayed alone ever since the demise of her husband.

The police suspect a robbery bid to be the motive behind the killing and have arrested a 24-year-old washerman, identified as Raju, and his two associates. The accused entered the house without any resistance as Raju has been known to the family, the police said.

Raju hatched the conspiracy and roped in his two associates Rakesh and Suraj to execute the robbery, the police said.

Preliminiary findings suggest the main accused had come to the house on Tuesday night, and when the house help opened the door, he overpowered her, dragged her to a room and restrained her. The two associates entered the house and smothered the widow with a pillow, the police said.

The house help, Mithila, later called her husband and brother-in-law. Her brother-in-law then made a PCR call, a senior police officer said.

"We received a PCR call at around 11 pm on Tuesday. The washerman was arrested from his residence. Based on his disclosure, one of his associates was arrested while our teams are working to nab the third accused in the case," DCP, Southwest, Ingit Pratap Singh said.

Dilip Saab later emerged as a staunch Nehruvian in his working years

THOUGH they did around seven films together, it was his partnership with Madhubala that would come to rule the headlines. The Mughal-E-Azam co-stars had a fiery romance and were set to get married. However, it fell apart when Dilip Kumar refused to have his career dictated by Madhubala's producer father, an episode discussed with painful brevity in his autobiography Dilip Kumar: The Substance and the Shadow.

There's an amusing story about how Dilip Kumar came to marry Saira Banu. While shooting for Azaad in Coimbatore, he was told by an astrologer that he would marry a girl half his age, who belonged to the same profession. The prophecy did turn true, with a young Saira Banu growing up in London with dreams of her favourite star. The couple were married in 1966 and have no children. "From the first time I met him, I found him to be so simple, unassuming," Saira Banu says in an old interview. "He even dresses so modestly, despite owning a treasured collection of suits, ties and handkerchiefs…"

Reading The Substance and the Shadow earlier this year, I was struck by the chapter set in Poona. In it, Dilip Kumar details how a combustible speech he gave at Army Club landed him in jail for a night, cooped up with Gandhi-adherents like Sardar Patel in the adjoining cells. From an accidental Gandhian, Dilip Saab emerged as a staunch Nehruvian in his working years. The former Prime Minister took a keen interest in Kumar's career, finding their shared ideas of secularism and nation-building reflected in his movies. And in 1962, Dilip Kumar led a troupe of artists to boost the morale of soldiers defeated in the Indo-China War. Other honours were to follow. In 1980, he was appointed the sheriff of Mumbai, and was a recipient of the Padma Bhushan, the Padma Vibhushan and Dadasaheb Phalke award (he also held the record for the highest number of Filmfare Best Actor wins).

The bristling intensity Dilip Kumar brought to his roles would set the bar for all. Growing up in Allahabad, Amitabh Bachchan would repeatedly watch Ganga Jamuna to understand 'how a Pathan was effortlessly playing a rustic character of UP.' In the 90s, another Pathan rose from a non-film background to immaculate stardom. The most Kumar-rite of modern actors, Shah Rukh Khan, would reprise his most iconic character in Bhansali's Devdas (2002). And when his contemporary Aamir Khan signed on for Lagaan, he was perhaps assured by the success of Naya Daur, the 1957 Dilip Kumar starrer it was adapted from. These influences aren't just trivia. If cinema exists in a continuum, the legend of Dilip Kumar will continue to grow. Such was his greatness and ferocity of craft.

Rest in glory, Yusuf Saab!

Taliban launches assault on Afghanistan as US troops withdraw

HERAT

THE Taliban launched a major assault on a provincial capital in Afghanistan on Wednesday, the first since the US military began its final drawdown of troops from the country, as insurgents press on with a blistering offensive.

Fierce fighting erupted in the western city of Qala-i-Naw, the capital of Badghis, with the militants seizing police headquarters and offices of the country's spy agency.

Afghanistan's Defence Minister Bismillah Mohammadi said government forces were in a "very sensitive military situation", adding that "the war is raging" with the Taliban.

The onslaught came just hours after Washington announced US forces on the ground had completed more than 90 percent of their withdrawal from Afghanistan, and as the Kabul government held talks with Taliban representatives in neighbouring Iran.

The militants have waged a dizzying campaign across Afghanistan since US and NATO forces announced the final withdrawal from the country in early May, seizing dozens of rural districts and stirring fears that the government is in crisis. "The enemy has entered the city, all the districts have fallen," Badghis governor Hessamuddin Shams told reporters in a text message.

Badghis provincial council chief Abdul Aziz Bek confirmed the assault, saying some security officials had surrendered to the Taliban.

"The provincial council officials have fled to an army camp in the city. Fighting continues in the city," added Badghis provincial council member Zia Gul Habibi.

She said the Taliban had entered the city's police headquarters and the local office of the country's spy agency, the National Directorate of Security.

In a separate video message sent to reporters, Shams attempted to calm the residents of the city, even as he appeared armed with a rifle with gunfire rattling in the distance.

"My message is please keep your calm. I assure you that we will, all of us, together defend the city," he said.

As news of the attack spread, social media was flooded with videos of the fight for the city, with some videos showing armed Taliban fighters on motorbikes entering Qala-i-Naw as onlookers cheered.

The fight for the city coincided with a high-level summit across the border in Iran, where an Afghan delegation met with Taliban representatives in Tehran, according to the Iranian foreign ministry.

Opening the Tehran talks, Iran's Foreign Minister Mohammad Javad Zarif welcomed the US departure from its eastern neighbour but warned: "Today the people and political leaders of Afghanistan must make difficult decisions for the future of their country."

US bases in Iraq, Syria come under attack

BAGHDAD

ROCKET and drone attacks on Wednesday targeted bases in Iraq and Syria hosting US forces that are part of an international coalition fighting the IS jihadist group.

Fourteen rockets were fired at an air base hosting American troops in Iraq's western province of Anbar, causing minor injuries to two personnel, the US-led coalition said.

It was the latest in a spate of attacks on US military and diplomatic facilities in Iraq, blamed on pro-Iranian armed groups within a state-sponsored paramilitary force.

US forces, who have 2,500 troops deployed in Iraq as part of the anti-Islamic State coalition, have been targeted almost 50 times this year in the country.

A Shi'ite militant group called Revenge of al-Muhandis Brigade claimed responsibility and vowed to defeat the "brutal occupation", according to the US-based SITE intelligence group which monitors extremist groups.

The militant group is named after Abu Mahdi al-Muhandis of Iraq's Hashed al-Shaabi paramilitary alliance, who was killed in a US drone strike early last year along with the revered Iranian general Qasem Soleimani, SITE said.

Last month, the US carried out deadly air strikes against pro-Iran fighters in both Iraq and Syria. On Wednesday, the Ain al-Assad base was attacked by 14 rockets that "landed on the base & perimeter," coalition spokesman Wayne Marotto wrote on Twitter. "Two personnel sustained minor injuries," he said, adding that the attack also damaged local homes. AFP

Haiti prez assassinated, PM declares state of siege

Professional mercenaries disguised US agents carried out attack

PORT-AU-PRINCE

HAITI President Jovenel Moise was assassinated and his wife wounded early Wednesday in a gun attack at their private residence, tipping the impoverished and crisis-hit Caribbean nation into a renewed state of political uncertainty.

Interim Prime Minister Claude Joseph declared a "state of siege" and said he was now in charge of the country, urging the public to remain calm while insisting the police and army would ensure public order.

As international outrage and shock spread over the killing, the capital Port-au-Prince was quiet early Wednesday with no extra security forces on patrol, witnesses reported.

"The president was assassinated at his home by foreigners who spoke English and Spanish," Joseph said of the assault that took place around 1:00 am (0500 GMT). "They shot and killed the president, and wounded his wife."

The president's wife Martine was being treated at hospital.

Moise had ruled Haiti, the poorest country in the Americas, by decree, after legislative elections due in 2018 were delayed in the wake of disputes, including on when his own term ends.

In addition to the political chaos, kidnappings for ransom have surged in recent months, reflecting the growing influence of armed gangs in the country. Haiti also faces chronic poverty and recurrent natural disasters.

The president faced steep opposition from swathes of the population that deemed his mandate illegitimate, and he churned through a series of seven prime ministers in four years. Most recently, Joseph was supposed to be replaced this week after only three months in the post.

As well as presidential, legislative and local elections, Haiti was due to have a constitutional referendum in September after it was twice postponed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The United Nations Security Council said it was shocked by the assassination, while US President Joe Biden condemned the killing as "horrific" and said Washington was ready to assist in any way.

"We condemn this heinous act, and I am sending my sincere wishes for First Lady Moise's recovery," Biden said in a statement.

Just hours after the assassination, Joseph announced he had declared a "state of siege," which grants the executive additional powers.

European Union foreign policy chief Josep Borrell warned "this crime poses a risk of instability and a spiral of violence. The perpetrators of this assassination must be found and brought to justice."

Moise -- a 53-year-old former entrepreneur who set up a string of businesses in the north of the country, where he hails from – burst onto the political stage in 2017 with a message of rebuilding the impoverished nation.

He campaigned on populist pledges, and was sworn in in February 2017. The end date of his mandate became the source of a political standoff. Moise maintained that his term of office ran until February 7, 2022, but others claimed it ended on February 7, 2021.

The disagreement stems from the fact that Moise was elected in a 2015 vote that was cancelled for fraud, and then re-elected in November 2016. AFP

11 convicted for cyberbullying teen in France

PARIS

A FRENCH court on Wednesday convicted 11 of 13 people charged with harassing and threatening a teenager who harshly criticised Islam in online posts and ended up changing schools and receiving police protection to preserve her safety.

The verdict came in a trial in Paris that was the first of its kind since France created a new court in January to prosecute online crimes, including harassment and discrimination.

The court sentenced the defendants to suspended prison terms of four to six months and fined them about $1,770 each.

"Social networks are the street. When you pass someone in the street, you don't insult them, threaten them, make fun of them," the presiding judge, Michel Humbert, said. "What you don't do in the street, don't do on social media." AP

Threatening footballer: Teen gets probation

Singapore: A teenager was sentenced to nine months probation and 40 hours of community service Wednesday for sending Instagram death threats to French footballer Neal Maupay after an English Premier League match. Derek Ng De Ren, 19, sent several threatening direct messages to Brighton & Hove Albion forward Maupay last year, according to court documents. The teenager was angered after watching a collision on TV between Maupay and Arsenal goalkeeper Bernd Leno during a match in June last year, that led to the goalie being stretchered off in the first half. "You think you will get away for injuring Leno? No way in hell bruv... But don't worry you will be safe you won't be hurt. It's more fun watching you feel pain when your loved ones go through suffering," Ng wrote to Maupay. AFP

Sweden parliament reinstates Lofven

Stockholm: Sweden's parliament on Wednesday voted to reinstate Social Democrat party leader Stefan Lofven as prime minister, only weeks after he was ousted in a historic vote of no confidence. Lofven's nomination was passed with a vote of 116 for, 173 against and 60 abstaining. Under the Swedish system a prime minister only needs to be tolerated by parliament -- meaning they can be confirmed as long as a majority doesn't vote against them. "Since less than half of the members of parliament have voted no, the chamber has approved the motion to appoint Lofven as PM," said speaker Andreas Norlen.

'2,100 migrants died trying to reach Spain by sea in six months'

REPRESENTATIONAL PICTURE

MADRID

NEARLY 2,100 migrants died trying to reach Spain by sea during the first six months of 2021, roughly the same amount as during all of last year, a migrant rights group said on Wednesday.

That is five times more deaths than were registered during the same period of last year and the highest number for a first half of the year since non-governmental organisation Caminando Fronteras, which monitors migratory flows, started keeping records in 2007.

"It's been a horrendous year," Helena Maleno, an activist with the Spanish NGO, told a news conference called to present the group´s latest report. A total of 2,087 migrants from 18 nations, mainly in West Africa, perished in attempts to get to Spain between January and June, compared to 2,170 during all of 2020.

Over 90 percent of the deaths this year, or 1,922, took place during 57 shipwrecks on the route to the Canary Islands. Such tragedies are recurring with migrant arrivals on the Atlantic archipelago surging since late 2019 after increased patrols along Europe's southern coast dramatically reduced crossings to the continent via the Mediterranean.

The shortest route to the islands is more than 100 kilometres (60 miles) from the Moroccan coast, but it is notoriously dangerous because of the strong currents in the Atlantic.

Maleno blamed the rise in deaths this year on a greater use of inflatable boats on this route, which are less safe, because migrants were struggling to get their hands on wooden vessels, and on inadequate cooperation between the rescue services of Spain and Morocco.

The cooperation between the two nations has worsened since a crisis in May that resulted in the entry of over 10,000 people from Morocco into Ceuta, a tiny Spanish enclave, she added.

"There is no coordination. Information is not flowing between the two states," Maleno said. In many cases, even after the NGO sounds the alarm about a struggling boat, no one comes to the rescue, she added. AFP

19 bodies of Russia plane crash victims found

MOSCOW

RESCUERS have found the bodies of 19 victims a day after a plane crash in a remote area in Russia's Far East, the authorities said.

An Antonov An-26 carrying 28 people crashed Tuesday near its destination town of Palana in the region of Kamchatka, apparently as it came in for a landing in bad weather. The plane was en route from the city of Petropavlovsk-Kamchatsky to Palana on Tuesday morning when it missed a scheduled communication and disappeared from radar.

Wreckage was found on Tuesday evening on a coastal cliffside and in the sea, and the search and rescue operation was suspended until Wednesday morning after night fell, as the crash site was difficult to access in the dark.

The governor of Kamchatka, Vladimir Solodov, told the state Tass news agency that the 'first bodies are being pulled out (of the water).' Russia's Emergency Ministry said that remains of 19 victims have been found so far, and one of them has been identified already.

Russian media reported on Tuesday that none of the six crew members or 22 passengers on board had survived. In the aftermath of the crash, the authorities in Kamchatka have declared three days of mourning. He said families of the victims will receive payments of more than 3.5 million rubles (about $47,200). AP

Trump believed 'Hitler did a lot of good things', reveals new book

WASHINGTON

DONALD Trump, during a visit to Europe while US president, told his chief of staff that "Hitler did a lot of good things," The Guardian newspaper reported on Wednesday, citing an upcoming book.

Trump's then chief of staff John Kelly was reportedly "stunned" by the remark.

The exchange is recounted in the upcoming book, "Frankly, We Did Win This Election," by Michael Bender of The Wall Street Journal, the British newspaper said. The Guardian said it had obtained a copy of the book ahead of its publication next week.

Trump reportedly made the comment while Kelly was giving the president an impromptu history lesson during a 2018 visit to Europe to mark the end of World War I.

According to the book, Kelly had "reminded the president which countries were on which side during the conflict" and "connected the dots from the first world war to the second world war and all of Hitler's atrocities."

"Well, Hitler did a lot of good things," Trump reportedly said. Kelly reportedly "told the president that he was wrong, but Trump was undeterred," emphasizing German economic recovery under Hitler during the 1930s.

"Kelly pushed back again and argued that the German people would have been better off poor than subjected to the Nazi genocide." AFP

Dept of public enterprises merged with Finance Ministry

Move to ease monetisation of PSUs slated for privatisation, cut procedural delays

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

JUST ahead of the cabinet reshuffle, the government has merged the Department of Public Enterprises (DPE) with the Finance Ministry to take better control of the companies which are to be privatised, better asset monetisation of the Central Public Sector Enterprises (CPSEs) and to cut on procedural delays in the divestment process.

According to the gazette notification issued by the government, the department will work for coordination on matters of general policy affecting all public sector enterprises (PSEs), evaluation and monitoring the performance of PSEs, including review of capital projects, expenditure, improving performance and restructuring or closure of PSEs among others.

Post this arrangement, Finance Ministry will now have six departments while DPE's hereto parent ministry. Presently, the Finance Ministry has five departments -- Economic Affairs, Revenue, Expenditure, Investment and Public Asset Management and Financial Services.

After the restructuring, the Ministry of Heavy Industries and Public Enterprises will now be called the Ministry of Heavy Industries and will continue to be the administrative ministry related primarily to the capital goods sector. As many as 44 CPSEs including BHEL, Cement Corporation, Scooters India, HMT and various other subsidiaries would be under the Ministry of Heavy Industries.

The gazette notification issued said these rules may be called the Government of India (Allocation of Business) Three Hundred and Sixty First Amendment Rules, 2021. "They shall come into force at once," the notification said.

This is not the first time it is happening. The department started in 1965 as the Bureau of Public Enterprises (BPE) under ministry of finance and was later shifted under the ministry of heavy industries and public enterprises.

Earlier even the Disinvestment Ministry — created under the Atal Bihari Vajpayee government — was merged with the Finance Ministry.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman in her Budget 2021-22 had set a target of ₹1.75 lakh crore from stake sale in public sector companies and financial institutions during 2021-22.

POST REJIG

- The Finance Ministry will now have six departments — Department of Public Enterprises, Economic Affairs, Revenue, Expenditure, Investment and Public Asset Management and Financial Services
- 44 CPSEs including BHEL, Cement Corporation, Scooters India, HMT and various other subsidiaries would be under the Ministry of Heavy Industries
- Ministry of Heavy Industries and Public Enterprises will now be called the Ministry of Heavy Industries

Attrition, wage hikes to dent margins of IT firms

BISMAH MALIK
@Bengaluru

INDIA'S tier -1 and mid-cap IT service providers are likely to post strong revenue growth in constant currency terms for the June quarter of FY22 despite the Covid second wave hitting the businesses worldwide. However, talent crunch and two cycles of pay hikes for top firms are likely to hit their operating margins.

Top brokerages and analysts say that companies including Infosys, HCL Tech, Tech Mahindra may revise their revenue guidance for the rest of the financial year with strong double-digit revenue growth compared to previous year when the pandemic caused disruption during the corresponding period.

Crisil ratings said that its analysis of top 18 IT firms revealed that the leading industry players have been able to maintain a healthy balance sheet with cash surpluses of almost ₹1.5 lakh crore at March 31, 2021.

Largest IT services firm Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) which will announce its results on Thursday, according to Kotak Institutional Equities, is expected to post a 5% revenue growth sequentially for the quarter, although the brokerage has placed its bets on peers, Infosys and Wipro, among large firms.

"We expect Infosys to lead the growth in tier-1 IT companies with sequential growth rate of 4.5%, followed by TCS (3.7% in constant currency), and Wipro (3.1% on an organic basis, 9.4% including Capco and Eximius Design acquisitions)," Kotak said in a note. Deal conversions, digital offerings, improved demand climate, cost-cutting undertaken by both large and mid-size IT firms have led to optimism on the street for the industry overall.

The mid-cap firms like TechM, Mindtree, L&T Infotech are expected to post industry leading robust revenue-growth. Mindtree's shares especially have gained 159.6% over the last one year beating the industry leaders as well as the Nifty IT index. During an analysts call last month, Mindtree's top management said that it has clocked record deals during the pandemic with little to no impact of Covid's second wave.

Kotak said that amongst the mid-tier IT service providers, Mindtree is likely to post a 6.8% q-o-q revenue growth followed by Mphasis (5% and L&T Infotech (3.5 %).

Amongst the verticals, Banking Finance and insurance (BFSI), retail, manufacturing, lifesciences will likely drive the major revenue growth for players across the board.

Attrition/ talent poaching to hit margins Analysts say that the higher attrition rates seen in the industry during the last quarter as well cycles of salary hikes to retain talent is likely to impact the operating margins for all the companies.

During Q4 of FY21, the attrition rates for companies like Infosys, Wipro, Cyient Technologies, Tech M peaked at 15.2%, 12.1%, 21% and 13%, respectively.

ICICI Securities said that the company margins are expected to be impacted in the range of 40-300 basis points due to wage hikes.

- Tata Consultancy Services is expected to post a 5% revenue growth
- Deal conversions, digital offerings, improved demand and cost-cutting boost optimism

Recovery sign? India's peak power demand sets new record at 200 GW

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

IN an indication that power demand growth is well and truly back on the upward trajectory after having been dented by lockdowns to contain successive waves of Covid, India registered a new record with peak power demand on Wednesday breaching the double century-mark for the first time.

"All India power-demand crossed 200 GW at 1201 hrs today," tweeted Union Minister for Power R K Singh.

For context, last month, the peak power demand met stood at 191.51 GW, registered on June 30. This number has been steadily recovering month-on-month after having been slowed a little by the peak of the second wave in April and May this year. Peak power demand met came in at 186.3 GW in March, 182.55 GW in April, and 168.8 GW in May.

However, June and July have seen a steep rise in power consumption metrics, due to both increasing temperatures caused by a delayed monsoon and recovering industrial activity, which has led to an increase in industrial power demand.

"We expect demand to continue on the upward path, especially since temperatures are quite high in northern India currently. We also see recovery in industrial demand after restrictions have been eased. But the dip in demand this summer due to the second wave was far less severe than last year," said a senior state-owned discom official.

Relaxed norm to exit power purchase deal

Even setting improving demand aside, power distribution companies (discom) have something else to cheer for. On Tuesday, the Union Ministry of Power clarified that discoms can stop all purchase from a particular power project once the Power Purchase Agreement's (PPA) has completed 25 years.

The clarification came after discom BSES' move to stop procuring power from NTPC's Dadri-1 plant and the Central Electricity Regulatory Commission's (CERC) decision to allow the discoms to approach the power ministry to give up their allocations. The regulator's direction had gone against NTPC's argument that there was no specific clause in the PPA allowing exit.

The ministry's clarification, however, opens the doors for many discoms to exit onerous PPAs that are older than 25 years. "This will allow many distributors to seek cheaper power. Many similar requests are likely going forward because of the ministry clarification," the discom official noted. The ministry had, in March this year, allowed discoms to relinquish PPAs in commercial operation for over 25 years.

THE government's recent decision to leave the interest rates on small savings schemes for the July-September quarter unchanged comes at a cost.

The interest paid every year against small savings schemes has been growing at 18% CAGR in the last five years, and the decision not to reduce the interest rates of these schemes would only aggravate the already fragile fiscal situation of the central government.

Just a week after the Finance Ministry had rolled back its decision to reduce the interest rates on small savings scheme for April-June quarter, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) in its April 7, 2021 monetary policy report had observed that the interest rates on small savings for various instruments are 69-198 bps higher than the formula-based rates.

Yet the government had to roll back its decision after facing a backlash. The government had on April 1 decided to cut the interest rates on small savings schemes drastically by 40-110 basis points before reversing the decision.

It was expected then that the rates would be reduced for the July-September quarter. However, the government decided to maintain the status quo lest it faced public anger.

How costly could the government's reluctance to reduce rates on small savings schemes prove?

"A 1% higher interest rate on small savings deposit base of today costs around ₹ 16,000-17,000 crore in a year," says Subhas Chandra Garg, former secretary, department of economic affairs, Ministry of Finance.

The government's budget estimate for interest payment on small savings schemes and provident funds for 2021-22 is ₹1.60 lakh crore, a 29.4% increase over last year's ₹1.24 crore. This is 20% of the government's estimated interest cost of ₹8.09 lakh crore for 2021-22.

The actual figure could well be much higher than ₹1.60 lakh crore as the government has not been able to take advantage of lower yields (and reduce the interest rates) in the first six months of the financial year.

The interest payments by the government on small savings schemes have grown by more than doubled in the last five years from ₹70,000 crore in 2016-17 to an estimated ₹1.60 lakh crore in 2021-22.

According to RBI, the government was paying almost 200 basis points higher interest on 1-year term deposit (5.5%) compared to formula-based rate of interest in the first quarter of 2020-21. Similarly, the government was paying 69 basis points higher interest on the Public Provident Fund (PPF) than the formula-based rate. The interest rate on PPF is currently 7.1%.

Should the government then bite the bullet and reduce the interest rates on these schemes?

"It is no big bullet to bite. If the government can impose at least 1 lakh crore of extra burden on common people in the form of petroleum product taxes, this is a relatively small matter," says SC Garg.

He further argues that in any case, banks have reduced the savings and fixed deposit rates which the same set of savers have accepted quite well. Bank deposits are 6-7 times higher than small savings deposits.

In the last one year, banks have reduced FD rates by 50-80 basis points.

Govt to review faceless tax assessment

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

ALMOST two years after the launch, the Income tax department will review the faceless assessment scheme to examine its effectiveness and ease of the process both for the department and the tax payer.

According to the sources, the department will hire an independent agency for the review process and after taking cases on the random basis, will submit its final report to the finance ministry.

"The purpose of the whole exercise is to look at the loopholes in the system and fix it where it is required. The aim is to make it better. The target is to complete the survey and submit report by August end," a senior official said.

The faceless assessment was launched in 2020 with the objective of promoting an efficient tax administration.

Zomato's ₹9,375-cr IPO to list on July 14; valuation may cross ₹65k cr

BISMAH MALIK @Bengaluru

ZOMATO will make its debut on Indian stock exchanges on July 14 and has increased the size of its Initial Public Offering to ₹9,375 crore from earlier proposed ₹7,500 crore , making it the first consumer internet company of India to go public.

According to the Red Herring Prospectus filed with the Registrar of Companies under the Ministry for Corporate Affairs, Zomato has proposed to open its bid offer for institutional/ retail investors on stock exchanges from July 14-16, earlier than the proposed dates, signalling a peaked interest from the market.

The food tech firm is also looking to raise over$ 1 billion (₹7,031 crore) from large institutional buyers. Sources say that Zomato's IPO valuation may even surpass $ 8.7 billion (₹65,000 crore) , after it has received interests from Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs).

This also includes an offer for sale by its biggest existing investor Infoedge for equity shares aggregating to ₹375 crore. Zomato has also allocated 6,500,000 equity shares for purchases by the company's employees , which will be included in the offer, as per the company filing.

The documents also suggest a huge traction for the food delivery giant by the large institutional investors with at least 75% of the share allocation to the qualified institutional buyers (QIBs), out of which 60% will be reserved for the anchor investors, in accordance with SEBI's issue of capital and disclosure requirements regulations. Under the SEBI norms, anchor investors are those QIBs who agree to invest a minimum of ₹10 crore in the IPo before it opens. Zomato also said that not more than 10% of the offer allocation will be made towards individual retail investors.

Despite improving its unit economics (average revenue per order) by increasing the delivery charges and charging higher commissions from partner restaurants, the food delivery startup is still not EBITDA positive, and will also test the street sentiments for new-age companies with huge stakes from the foreign VC funds. The company has also recently rejigged its board and has appointed 5 independent directors including four women.

Expect recovery, no delay in launches, capex: JLR

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

TATA MOTORS owned British luxury caremaker Jaguar Land Rover on Wednesday said that once there is improvement in semi-conductor shortage issue, the company will witness a dramatic rebound. However, JLR also informed that it may manage to produce only up to 150,000 units in April-September quarter as against previous estimate of 235,000 units.

JLR added that the company has no plans to delay upcoming launches or reduce their capital expenditure planned for FY22.

This announcement by JLR comes a day after the company had warned that its production in the September quarter could fall short by as much as 50% of the company's previous expectation due to an acute shortage of semi-conductors chips. Following this announcement, shares of Tata Motors tanked by as much as 10% on Tuesday and ended flat on Wednesday.

"We have no plans to delay current launches as a result of any issue we see today. However, launch readiness and full production capacity is at least 9-12 months away," Adrian Mardell, chief financial officer at JLR, told investors in a conference call.

On Wednesday shares of Tata Motors closed at ₹317.

BRAND BATTLE

Does ITC's potato biscuit infringe Pran's trade dress?

SESA SEN @New Delhi

PACKAGED FOOD major ITC has launched "Sunfeast All Rounder" – a 'chatpata masala' flavored 'thin potato biscuits' widely advertising it as "India's own" just weeks after Bangladesh-based Pran Foods' Potata became an internet sensation. However, questions have been raised on the resemblance in packaging, which comes in bright red colour with a stacking of potato wafers in the same quadrant in the wrapper, triggering concerns over violation of trade dress under the ambit of Intellectual Property Rights (IPR).

"It is a fairly common branding strategy to deliberately use some similar elements. But that said, ITC still seems to have the upper hand here because of the distinct brand name. At this stage, Pran can make a 'trade dress' claim. But, protection of trade dress is an evolving concept and doesn't have much of a legal recognition in India," said Nikhil Narendran, a Partner in Trilegal.

In India, there is no specific definition of trade dress under Trademark Act 1999. But a new amendment recognised trade dress protection through a new definition of a trademark under Section 2 of the Trademark Act.

Law professionals agree that similarity exists in this case, but they say it is a theoretical argument as all 'copying' is not actionable under law. Also, high-profile trademark disputes, such as the litigation between Britannia and ITC over the packaging of digestive biscuits or even the Emami-HUL tussle over rights of brand name, often pit big businesses against one another. But, when the defendant is a relatively smaller company it can be a life-or-death contest.

Pran has a factory in Agartala, Tripura and the brand Potata has a registered trademark in India. The company exports to over 140 countries and its export revenues alone are nearly ₹100 crore.

Dev Robinson, partner and national practise head, IPR, Shardul Amarchand Mangaldas & Co, says, "Only that which comes too close such that there is confusion in the minds of the consumers, or very close in terms of artwork etc. may be actionable,"

Echoing similar sentiments, Ankur Raheja, an expert in IPR law, said: "This case can amount to passing-off as to packaging. The packaging gets a cover under Copyright Act as to artistic work, and that need not be compulsorily registered in India. But, it may not be easy as the court may look into various other factors"

ITC has refused to comment on the story. Ahsan Khan Chowdhury, chairman and CEO of the Pran-RFL Group, the parent company which owns the brand, said "it doesn't have any copyright issues with ITC".

Virus emergency to be imposed in Tokyo during Olympics

TOKYO 2020

The Japanese government plans to impose a virus state of emergency in Tokyo during the Olympics, reports said, meaning spectators could be barred from venues. The emergency measures — less strict than a blanket lockdown — would be in force until August 22, several Japanese media outlets reported, following a rise in cases less than three weeks before the Games begin.

Lahiri reveals battle with coronavirus

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

A SMILING Anirban Lahiri greeted select members of the Indian media during a virtual press conference on Wednesday evening. Lahiri, who will be taking part in his second Olympics, wanted to speak to the Indian media as he wanted to spread awareness about Covid, recovering from it and donating to India-specific charities to help the country recover quickly after a devastating second wave.

His mood turned sombre when he got down to explaining his own battle with the virus, which sent him to the emergency room twice and had 'my doctor worried'. "I had a pretty serious bout of Covid-19," he said. "I was diagnosed with Covid pneumonia, think it was on day five after the onset of disease when I was asked to visit urgent care facility by my doctor (he contracted the disease in the third week of April). It's quite a scary thing when you hear that. My chest x-ray wasn't positive so I was put on stronger medication. I had to visit the emergency room again when my fever spiked to 104 degrees. My 02 sats were down and my doctor was worried. Luckily, a subsequent x-ray ruled out Covid pneumonia and I began to recover. In all, I had lost about 7.5 kgs in 10 days. Lost a lot of my muscle mass but I was fortunate to have had access to that medication."

"It's been difficult to watch what's been happening in other parts of the world. So I appreciate the PGA tour in helping me to get the word out."

Italy players rejoice after beating Spain in penalty shootout on Tuesday | AP

4ZA ITALY

Mancini's men hold nerves in penalty shootout to defeat Spain 4-2

ASSOCIATED PRESS @London

FACING a wall of nervous blue-and-white clad Italy fans behind the goal, Jorginho took his trademark hop and skip before calmly stroking in the winning penalty. So much for the pressure of a shootout in the European Championship semifinals.

A dash of Italian panache completed a 4-2 penalty-shootout win over Spain at Wembley Stadium on Tuesday, setting up a title match against either England or Denmark back at the same stadium on Sunday.

The match finished 1-1 after extra time and provided Italy with its toughest test of the tournament, with Spain controlling possession for long periods. Federico Chiesa scored for Italy with a curling shot in the 60th minute but substitute Alvaro Morata equalized for Spain in the 80th.

Morata, dropped from the starting lineup for the first time in a tournament during which he has received verbal abuse and even death threats from his own fans, will go down as Spain's scapegoat once again after having a penalty saved by Gianluigi Donnarumma in the next-to-last kick of the shootout.

ITALY WON 4-2 IN THE SHOOTOUT

As he walked back to the center circle with his head bowed, Jorginho made the opposite journey and didn't make the same mistake.

The Chelsea midfielder has his own style when it comes to taking penalties and he didn't abandon it when it mattered most, sparking a throng of celebrations as Italy's players sprinted from the halfway line. Jorginho was mobbed. Italy coach Roberto Mancini was hugged by the rest of coaching staff. The players lined up on the edge of the area and ran together, holding hands, toward the fans.

Leonardo Bonucci went further, leaping over the advertising hoardings to get even closer to the crazed supporters whose loud cheering had lifted the team in their most difficult moments.

Martinez helps Argentina set up Brazil clash

AFP @Brasilia

GOALKEEPER Emiliano Martinez was the hero as Argentina defeated Colombia on penalties on Tuesday to set up a dream Copa America final against Brazil. Argentina stopper Martinez saved three penalties in the shoot-out after a bruising 1-1 draw in Brasilia.

For Messi, 34, time is running out to win a first major international title with his national team, having previously lost in three Copa finals and the 2014 World Cup final.

For once he wasn't his country's main hero, although he did create the opening goal for Lautaro Martinez on seven minutes, before Luis Diaz equalized just after the hour mark.

In the shoot-out, goalkeeper Martinez three times dived to his left to save penalties from center-backs Davinson Sanchez and Yerry Mina, as well as midfielder Edwin Cardona.

Federer crashes out, Djokovic advances

AFP @London

ROGER Federer crashed out of Wimbledon in the quarterfinals at the hands of Poland's Hubert Hurkacz on Wednesday, potentially bringing down the curtain on the Swiss legend's All England Club career.

Federer, the 20-time Grand Slam winner, lost 6-3, 7-6 (4), 6-0 to a player 15 years his junior. It was only the eight-time Wimbledon champion's 14th defeat at the tournament in 119 matches and his first straight sets loss since an opening round exit against Mario Ancic in 2002. Five-time champion Novak Djokovic reached his 10th Wimbledon semifinal and 41st at the Grand Slams.

SL players in isolation until day before India ODI

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

EVEN as all the members of the Sri Lankan contingent tested negative for coronavirus on Wednesday, their playing XI, in all probability, might have to take on India in the first ODI on July 13 without any outdoor training sessions. As per the existing Covid-19 protocols, the players and support staff, who returned from England on Tuesday, were kept in isolation and subjected to RT-PCR tests on their arrival.

As they have travelled from England to Sri Lanka in a bio-bubble, they were not subjected to a mandatory 14-day quarantine period. However, they have to spend seven days in isolation in a Colombo hotel before taking the field. The situation arose after seven members of the England team including three players were found to be Covid positive on Tuesday soon after the limited-overs series with Sri Lanka.

"None of our team members, who returned from England, tested positive," Mohan de Silva, secretary of Sri Lanka Cricket (SLC), told this daily. But returning negative didn't resolve the issue completely for the Sri Lanka team.

"For the first three days since arrival (July 6), the team members will have to undergo a strict quarantine in their respective hotel rooms. From the fourth day onward, they can use gyms and swimming pools at the hotel. They can also train there. After completion of the seven-day period, they can go outdoor for training," added the SLC office-bearer.

De Silva also added that the players will not be subjected to frequent testing and they will be tested only once after completion of isolation period of seven days.

Interestingly, Day 7 of the quarantine ends on July 12 and the first ODI is scheduled for the next day. "They can train in the hotel as it has facilities, which can be helpful," said De Silva.

> For the first three days since arrival (July 6), the team members will have to undergo a strict quarantine in their respective hotel rooms. From the fourth day, they can use gyms and swimming pools at the hotel.
> Mohan de Silva, SLC secretary

Earlier, professor Arjuna De Silva, head of the SLC medical panel, told this daily that the risk to Lankan players is very low. "We have done a risk assessment. We think the risk to our players is very low," he said. He also said that the existing norms are enough to counter the situation. "No need to have any new protocols as our ones are rigorous enough. Also, our players are vaccinated with Sputnik and have antibodies as well."

The Kusal Perera and Co had lost all their completed matches against hosts England (3 T20Is and 2 ODIs) while the third one-day international did not yield a result as rain saved them from the indignity of a whitewash. Given the protocols they have to follow, which in turn will render them short of proper practice, the players have to play out of their skin to ensure the Men in Blue do not have it easy in the upcoming series comprising three ODIs and as many T20Is.

US biotech firm Moderna said Wednesday it had dosed its first participants in a human study of an mRNA vaccine that targets multiple strains of influenza. The company intends to recruit 180 adults in the United States for the Phase 1/2 portion of the trial to evaluate the safety and strength of immune response to the shot, called mRNA-1010.

WHO recommends 2 more life-saving coronavirus drugs

Tocilizumab, sarilumab found to be effective in analysis that combined data from 27 trials

MEDICINE

ARTHRITIS drugs tocilizumab and sarilumab reduce the risk of death and the need for ventilators among hospitalised Covid-19 patients, according to an analysis of nearly 11,000 patients published on Tuesday.

The study appeared in the Journal of the American Medical Association and prompted the World Health Organization to recommend the use of the medicines, known as IL-6 inhibitors, in addition to corticosteroids among patients with severe or critical Covid.

Manu Shankar-Hari, a professor at King's College London and lead author of the paper, said the research represented a "definitive piece of evidence" in favor of the drugs after earlier studies produced mixed results.

Among hospitalized patients, administering one of the drugs in addition to corticosteroids reduced the risk of death by 17%, compared to the use of corticosteroids alone.

In patients who were not on ventilators, the risk of progressing to mechanical ventilation or death was reduced by 21%, compared to the use of corticosteroids alone.

Severely ill Covid patients experience an immune system overreaction known as a "cytokine storm" that can cause organ damage and death.

Tocilizumab and sarilumab are used to treat rheumatoid arthritis, an autoimmune condition, by inhibiting the effects of interleukin (IL)-6, a type of protein called a cytokine that signals the body to mount an inflammatory response.

But previous research on whether IL-6 inhibitors can be useful against severe Covid have variously reported benefit, no effect or harm. This prompted the WHO to coordinate the new study that combined data from 27 randomized trials conducted in 28 nations. These are the first drugs the WHO has recommended as effective Covid-19 treatments since it gave the greenlight for dexamethasone last year.

The analysis included information on 10,930 patients, of whom 6,449 were randomly assigned to receive interleukin-6 inhibitors and 4,481 to receive usual care or placebo.

Overall, the risk of death within 28 days was 22% compared with an assumed risk of 25% in those receiving only usual care. Outcomes were better when patients also received corticosteroids, with the risk of dying 21% compared to 25% for those receiving usual care.

This means that for every 100 such patients, four more will survive.

The study also examined the impact of these drugs on whether patients progressed to ventilators or death.

Among patients also given corticosteroids, the risk was found to be 26% for those receiving IL-6 inhibitors compared with an assumed 33% in those receiving usual care.

Big banks pressured by investors to ditch coal

RESEARCH

MORE than 100 institutional investors called on Wednesday on major global banks to fight harder against global warming, in particular by cutting funds to projects that involve coal.

The deep-pocketed asset managers warned that they might back resolutions at banks' shareholder meetings that push management to do more, or vote not to re-elect company directors.

In all, 115 investors with $4.2 trillion in holdings, including Aviva Investors, Fidelity and M&G, wrote to 63 banks, including Standard Chartered, Deutsche Bank and JPMorgan Chase, according to a statement released by the non-governmental organisation ShareAction.

The investment groups called for stronger measures to safeguard the planet's climate and biodiversity, given the leverage that banks have via financing, ahead of the COP26 conference scheduled for November in Glasgow, Scotland.

The main measure would be to halt financing for coal-related projects by 2030 in countries that belong to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development, and by 2040 for the others. The investors hope that banks might announce before the COP26 takes place that they will no longer finance new coal projects.

In addition, the letter calls on banks to work towards limiting increases in global warming to 1.5°Celsius, a Paris deal target.

Earth experiences one of the hottest June months on record

Last month was the hottest June on record in North America, stoked by a deadly heatwave searing across parts of the region, the European Union's climate monitoring service reported on Wednesday, saying it illustrates the impacts of global warming. Globally, June 2021 joins the same month in 2018 as the fourth warmest June

UNPRECEDENTED HEAT

Record-breaking heat scorched regions from the southwest to the northwest of the United States. In Canada, the all-time record daily temperature was broken three days in a row in British Columbia

1.2°C

The North America region was 1.2 degrees Celsius (34.2 degrees Fahrenheit) above the 1991-2020 average in June, according to the Copernicus Climate Change Service (C3S)

2nd

warmest June on record for Europe, while northern Siberia also saw extremely high summer temperatures

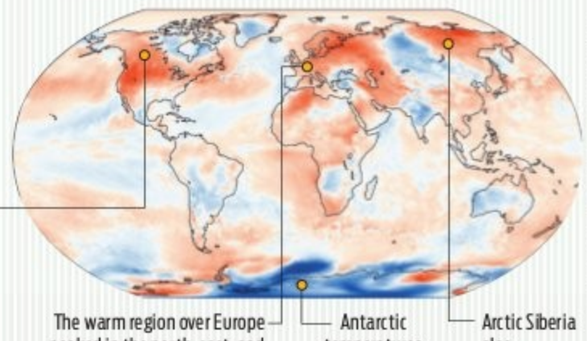
WHY IS THIS A PROBLEM?

It is well understood that heatwaves are occurring more frequently, are more intense, and are lasting longer than they did in the past

Furthermore, the past six years, including 2020, have been the six warmest on record

SURFACE AIR TEMPERATURE

The map shows June month's variations in temperatures in comparison with the June average for the 1991-2020 period



The warm region over Europe peaked in the north-east, and extended south-westward to North Africa and south-eastward as far as Iran and Pakistan

Antarctic temperatures were predominantly colder than usual

Arctic Siberia also experienced high temperatures

CONNECTED RISKS The heatwave-regions affected also had unusually dry soils, according to a report from C3S, which noted that both wildfires and heat "posed threats to life". Dozens of fires have ripped across parts of Canada in recent days, fuelled by the deadly heatwave and tinder-dry conditions

Shortage forces Lanka to mix vaccine shots

MEDICINE

GENEVA: Sri Lanka is administering Pfizer shots to people who were left waiting after receiving their first AstraZeneca doses earlier this year.

Mixing two vaccines is still being studied for its effectiveness, but Sri Lanka health officials approved it due to a severe AstraZeneca shortage.

Sri Lanka received 26,000 doses of Pfizer on Monday as the first batch of 5 million shots to be received this year. It started rolling them out Wednesday to residents 55 and older in the capital Colombo.

About 384,000 people were fully vaccinated before Sri Lanka ran out of AstraZeneca doses with 540,000 people only partially vaccinated.

Channa Jayasumana, the state minister overseeing pharmaceuticals, said getting Pfizer as the 2nd dose was optional and a consignment of AstraZeneca vaccine was expected this month. Sri Lanka has seen a sharp increase of Covid cases and deaths since April.

4-day work week an overwhelming success, says study

HEALTH

LONDON: A four-day work week has been an "overwhelming success" in Iceland with the majority of the labour force switching to work fewer hours without affecting their productivity, according to researchers in the country.

A study was conducted between 2015 and 2019 in the Iceland national government and capital Reykjav'k's City Council, part of which over 2,500 workers -- about 1% of the Nordic nation's working population – were paid the same as before but for fewer hours in duty, the BBC reported, quoting a report by UK-based think tank Autonomy and Iceland's Association for Sustainable Democracy.

Productivity levels rose or remained the same in the majority of the workplaces, researchers said.

Following the success of the study, a number of similar trials have begun across the world, including in Spain and New Zealand, the BBC said in its report.

The study noted that most people shifted from a work week of about 40 hours to one of 35-36 hours.

However, the productivity levels could be managed with the help of rearranged shifts, junking unnecessary tasks, evolving methods to complete tasks with greater speed, reducing length of meetings and in some cases replacing meetings with e-mails. Eventually, more sectors in Iceland were involved in the four-day week schedule starting with pre-schools, offices, social service providers and hospitals.

Presently, 86 per cent of Iceland's workforce is either working fewer hours for the same pay or they are gaining the right to do so, the British broadcaster reported.

The study findings noted that workers benefit with the feeling of less stress, reduced risk of burnout, improved overall health, better work-life balance, more time with families, for hobbies and for household chores.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Almonds and prediabetes

RESEARCH

Eating almonds twice a day can help improve glucose metabolism as well as keep cholesterol levels in check, suggests a study. The study, led by Jagmeet Madan, Professor and Principal at Sir Vithaldis Thackersey College of Home Science in Mumbai, showed that almond consumption can improve blood sugar levels at the pre-diabetes stage, which may help prevent or delay the development of diabetes. For the study, the team included 59 male and 216 female participants with impaired glucose metabolism (prediabetes). The almond group ate 56 grams of unroasted almonds every day for three months and the control group consumed a savory snack made using whole wheat flour, chickpea flour, with the same calorie count.

Period poverty in Lebanon

HEALTH

With prices soaring in crisis-hit Lebanon, lakhs of women in the country can no longer afford sanitary pads. The price of menstrual pads, the vast majority of which are imported, has risen by almost 500% since the start of a financial crisis the World Bank has dubbed likely one of the world's worst since the 1850s. Packs of sanitary towels now cost between 13,000 and 35,000 Lebanese pounds -- between $8.60 and $23 at the official exchange rate – up from just 3,000 pounds ($2) before the economic crisis. With more than half the population living in poverty, tens of thousands of women are now on a desperate hunt for affordable alternatives.

Russia kicks off Space Race 2 for shooting first movie in orbit

SPACE

THE Titanic is ix decades after Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin became the first human to orbit Earth, earning Moscow a key win in the Cold War, Russia is again in a space race with Washington.

This time though the stakes are somewhat glitzier.On October 5, actress Yulia Peresild is blasting off to the International Space Station (ISS) with film director Klim Shipenko, 38.

Their mission? Shoot the first film in orbit before the Americans do.

If their plan falls into place, the Russians are expected to beat Mission Impossible star Tom Cruise and Hollywood director Doug Liman, who were first to announce their project together with NASA and Space X, the company of billionaire Elon Musk.

"I really want us to be not only the first but also the best," Peresild told AFP, with the clock ticking down to the planned October 5 blast-off from the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Kazakhstan.

The Call -- the Russian project's working title -- was announced in September last year, four months after the Hollywood project.

Yulia Peresild, 36, one of Russia's most celebrated actresses, is set to blast off to the International Space Station | AFP

But apart from its grand ambitions, little is known about the film.

Its plot, which has been kept under wraps by the crew and Russia's space agency, has been revealed by Russian media outlets to feature a doctor dispatched urgently to the ISS to save a cosmonaut.

Nor has The Call's budget been disclosed. But it's no secret that travel to space is a costly business: one seat on a Soyuz rocket to the ISS usually costs NASA tens of millions of dollars.

Hinting at the film's aesthetic direction, one big name on the credit list is Konstantin Ernst, the 60-year-old head of the overtly Kremlin-friendly Channel One television network.

Ernst has stage-managed some of the most important moments in Russia's recent political history and of President Vladimir Putin's career: military parades, inaugurations, the opening ceremony of the 2014 Olympic Games in Sochi.

Dmitry Rogozin, the outspoken head of Russia's Roscosmos space agency, will also feature when the credits role in theatres throughout the country.

Row over Leonardo drawing

ART

A small pen-and-ink drawing attributed to Leonardo da Vinci, which lay buried unrecognised in a box for decades, was at the centre of an acrimonious battle between its owner and France's culture ministry in a case that opened in a Paris court on Wednesday. The court began hearing if the drawing of amartyred Saint Sebastian lashed to a tree is allowed to leave France for eventual purchase by a foreign buyer, as desired by the owner, named only a Jean B, but contested by the French state. The piece was among several drawings and engravings that Jean B, now 86, received as a gift from his father for passing his medical school exams in 1959. Being more of a rock enthusiast than an art lover at the time, the young doctor put it aside and promptly forget about it for over half a century. Stumbling across the box of drawings again during a move in 2016 he decided to give them to the Tajan auction house to have them valued.

'DILIP SAAB WAS LIKE FAMILY TO US'

...says actor Sharmiela Mandre, whose grandfather, Ramanand Mandre, had a close connection with legendary Bollywood actor Dilip saab, who passed away at the age of 98

A SHARADHAA

WEDNESDAY marked the end of an era with the passing away of legendary actor Dilip saab. There was an outpouring of tributes with the film fraternity across India sharing memories of the actor. The loss has left a huge void for many, including actor Sharmiela Mandre who revealed that Dilip saab shared a very close connection with Bengaluru. Soon after the news broke, Sharmiela shared with CE that Dilip saab and her grandfather Ramanand Mandre had a close bond.

"Dilip saab was more like a family to us. My grandfather, until he passed away in 2009, was very close to him. So much so Dilip saab was one of the main reasons that Ajja took a plunge into the film industry as financier and distributor. Otherwise the family was into the textiles business," Sharmiela said. Sharmiela, who is currently traveling, went on to recall that this move led her grandfather to become one of the pioneers in the film industry--owning several theatres, including Sangam, and becoming the sole distributor of Hindi films in Karnataka.

Sharing some photographs from back in the day of Dilip saab and Saira Banu's visit to Bengaluru during which they spent much time with Mandre senior, Sharmiela said, "Every single time that Dilip saab visited the city, along with his wife Saira Banu, he would only stay at my grandfather's house on Cunningham Road. Ajja never gave him any choice about it. That was the kind of relationship he had with our family.

It was only when his health started deteriorating that he stopped visiting the city,". Sharmiela remembers meeting Dilip saab as a Class 7 student and her impression of the thespian was that he was a 'people's person'. "He was charismatic and never had qualms about meeting anyone. " says Sharmiela.

"Ajja had told me that Dilip saab's favourite local tiffin was the Mysuru masala dosae. Since he would not get the right kind in Mumbai, he would sometimes travel here to relish the bisi bisi dosaes."

Newly-appointed chairperson of women's body FICCI FLO Bengaluru, Revathi Raju takes us through her journey of being a homemaker to helming top administrative positions

PIC: VINOD KUMAR T

DARING TO dream

SANATH PRASAD

FAILURES come and go, but one has to come back stronger to achieve what they dream. This is what drives Revathi Raju, the newly-appointed chairperson of FICCI (Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry) FLO's Bengaluru chapter. The true-blue Bengalurean admits that she missed the bus to pursue her dreams during her younger days. But not stopping herself now, Raju has a finger in every pie- education, entrepreneurship, and social service. "I was a Kuchipudi dancer. But I come from a very conservative family and had little scope to express my talent on stage. When I was growing up, a woman performing on stage was not accepted. Even today I miss being a dancer," says Raju, who is in her 50s.

But life had different plans for her. Before donning the hats of an educationist and a business person, in the early 2000s, she was part of Innerwheel, an international organisation linked to the Rotary Club, which was improving the infrastructure in Hebbal. "From setting up water facilities to lighting the streets, I was part of the community development project," says Raju, who later assumed the role of managing director at the family-run Vyasa International School in 2008.

From being a homemaker to taking on an administrative role has been a challenge."It was difficult to shift gears. However, my father guided me and I learnt all the tricks of the trade. Getting into the education sector was a different ball game, but I enjoyed every bit," says Raju, who took over as board member of Atria Education Trust and Atria Hotel in 2015. Not having been able to pursue her dreams at a young age, she is ensuring that other women have an opportunity to take their passions forward. "At FICCI FLO, we have lined up a series of startup incubation programmes, mentoring sessions to reach out to women entrepreneurs who are struggling during the pandemic," says Raju who has been part of the Bengaluru chapter for six years now.

frankly speaking

In the coming days, Raju plans to airdrop over 5 lakh seedballs (a blend of manure, seeds and red soil) prepared by kids. This, to reduce the carbon footprint. In addition, she will be taking over a project that FICCI FLO took on last year. They had adopted a village in Mandya to introduce skill-based development programmes to rural women and children. "We are introducing an organic farming model. This year we are also starting English and computer classes for women and children. Moreover, the village grows a lot of tomatoes and as a result we are looking to collaborate with a local NGO to set up a tomato processing unit. This initiative is aimed at amplifying skills in education, environment and sustainability for better livelihood," says Raju, who is also planning to form clusters in south India to train women in textiles and crafts.

This 17-year-old girl from Bengaluru, who is creating awareness on sustainable menstrual solutions, will be one of the finalists to speak at the United Nations in December 2021

Period. Time to go GREEN

VEDIKA MANE

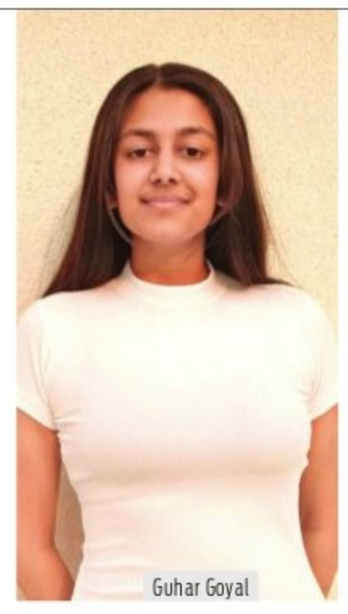
THE buzz word in recent times is sustainability, and Bengaluru girl Guhar Goyal, who is one of the finalists of the Future Leaders programme by 1M1B Foundation, recognises this. Which is why she is creating awareness about sustainable menstrual solutions, hygiene problems and the risk to the environment caused by sanitary pads. All this through her project 'Green Periods'.

The 17-year-old is a part of the programme by 1M1B Foundation (Million for 1 Billion)-a United Nations accredited non-profit organisation that aims to activate one million young leaders who will impact one billion people for a sustainable planet.

The programme recognises young people who work at the grassroots and demonstrates how their actions are driving fulfillment of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Goyal is one of the finalists with 40 to 45 other students to speak at the United Nations in December 2021.

Letting us in on what led her to the idea of her initiative, Goyal says, "When I got my first period, I wasn't comfortable using sanitary pads which would often lead to rashes. It was then that my mom introduced me to reusable cloth pads. I felt like this was a great discovery and the biggest lifestyle change that I underwent." This change encouraged her to share her experience with others. Now, she is hoping to educate people about sustainable menstruation products such as cloth pads and cups. "Green Periods' simply translates to sustainable periods and the color green represents the environment and sustainability," she adds.

A student of Neev Academy, she plans to file a petition that recognises sanitary pads as a medical product, and ensure that manufacturers disclose all the contents of the product. "Research proves that sanitary pads contain harmful chemicals like styrene, chloroform, and chloromethane which are not supposed to come in direct contact with blood and sensitive parts of the body. I believe that just filing a petition itself would gain awareness and create noise," says Goyal.



Guhar Goyal

Goyal's project has received a fundraiser of ₹1 lakh which was used to buy 200 menstrual cups for Covid-19 frontline workers. During the Swachh Survekshan 2021 event, she distributed more than 80 menstrual cups to pourakarmikas. The Class 12 student plans to do her undergraduate studies in the US and will be carrying on with her project alongside. Through her Instagram account (@greenperiods) she hopes to convey ideas and have a greater influence on society. "There aren't many people who know the damage these products can cause. It's something that needs to be addressed," she says.

FIT BIT

PARSVA VIRABHADRASANA

(REVERSE WARRIOR POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'parsva' means side, 'Virabhadra' refers to an incarnation of Lord Shiva and 'asana' means pose. It is a standing lateral bend that provides a deep side stretch. It is also sometimes called Viparita Virabhadrasana. Traditionally, it is believed to activate the Manipura (third) Chakra, which is associated with the solar plexus, providing a sense of self-confidence, self-esteem and energy. This chakra also controls digestion and metabolism. A beneficial asana for those with sedentary jobs. One can also practice a variation of this pose where both legs remain extended and straight, as in Trikonasana (Triangle Pose).

STEPS

- Stand on your mat with hands on the sides.
- Place your left leg forward about 2-3 feet apart, with feet pointing straight ahead.
- Slowly bend your left knee so that the thighs make a 90 degrees angle with the fore legs.
- Let the right leg, pointing backwards, maintain an angle of about 45 degrees to the ground.
- Let the right hand rest on the right thighs.
- Raise the left hand upwards and simultaneously arch the spine forward. The chest is opened up and the face and gaze is turned upwards. The left palm points straight to the sky.
- Remain in this pose for as long as you are comfortable.
- To release the pose, bring down the left hand and straighten the left leg.
- Bring your feet together again.
- Rest for a few breaths and repeat the same with the right leg forward.
- You can practise this with other variations of Virabhadrasana (Virabhadrasana I, II and III).

BENEFITS

- Helps calm the mind.
- Helps bring balance to the body.
- Regular practice energises the body.
- Stretches the arms and opens up the hips; strengthens the lower body.
- Helps open up the chest and develops core strength.
- Improves perseverance and heightens self-esteem.

LIMITATIONS

- If you are suffering from any injury to your knee and cervical spine related issues, you should avoid it.
- Those who are suffering from heart- and disc-related issues, should avoid this.

ALL ABOUT PREGNANCY AND VACCINATION

Inoculation has now been approved for pregnant women, so here's everything you need to know about getting the jab if you are expecting

DR DEEPTHI ASHWIN

Pregnancy does not increase the risk of Covid infection but the infection in pregnancy may result in rapid deterioration of health of pregnant women and could also affect the foetus. Experts are of the view that the benefits of vaccination to pregnant women outweigh its potential risks. The Ministry of Health and Family welfare has approved vaccination of pregnant women with the condition that they have to be informed about the risks of exposure to Covid along with the risks and benefits of vaccination.

Symptomatic pregnant women appear to have an increased risk of severe disease and death. Pregnant women with underlying medical conditions like high BP, diabetes, have a history of clotting in the limbs, obesity, age over 35 years, organ transplant recipients, chronic respiratory conditions like COPD, asthma or congenital or acquired heart diseases are at a higher risk of severe illness.

Covid infection in pregnancy in some cases may increase the possibility of premature delivery and in rare cases may have an intrauterine death.

In case a pregnant woman has been infected, then she should be vaccinated soon after delivery.

In India, at present three vaccines have received approval for restricted use in emergency situation. They are Covishield, Covaxin and Sputnik V.

Vaccines may have side effects which are normally mild. After vaccination, there may be a mild fever, pain at the injection site or feeling unwell for one to three days.

The long term adverse effects and safety of the vaccine for foetus and child is not yet established.

Very rarely pregnant women may experience some of the following symptoms within 20 days after getting vaccination which may require immediate attention. They are shortness of breath, chest pain, persistent abdominal pain with or without vomiting, pain or swelling in the limbs, arm or calf, small hemorrhages or bruising of the skin beyond the injection site, weakness/ paralysis of limbs or any particular side of the body, seizures with or without vomiting, severe or persisting headaches with or without vomiting, persistent vomiting without any obvious cause, blurred vision/pain in the eyes or any other symptom which causes concern. If any of these symptoms develop then they should visit the hospital immediately.

Vaccination is contraindicated if you have developed an allergic reaction to the previous dose of vaccine or temporarily contraindicated with a diagnosed or active Covid infection or if the infection was treated with monoclonal antibodies or convalescent plasma.

Even after vaccination, they should wear a double mask, practice frequent handwashing and maintain physical distance and avoid going to crowded places.

All pregnant women need to register themselves on the CoWIN portal or onsite at the vaccination centre. The process for registration remains the same as of general population and as per the latest guidance provided by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare.

Breaking down bone cancer

Read this to know more about the causes, symptoms and treatment options available for the condition

DR SRIMANTH B S

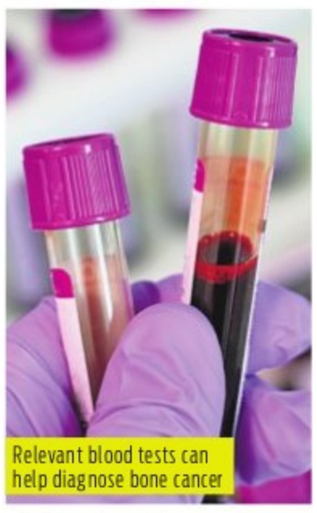
Bone cancer (Sarcoma) is rare in adults (nearly two per cent of all cancers), but accounts for 20 per cent of all solid cancers in children. Bone cancers are known for their aggressive nature, often destroying the limb and spreading to other organs. Hence, it is important to identify these cancers early to prevent loss of limb and life.

Several factors like socio-economic environment, poor dietary habits, genetic factors, exposure to radiation have been proposed as the cause but are not conclusive. Limbs are commonly involved, whereas spine, pelvis and other flat bones in the body have less predilection.

A high index of suspicion is required when an individual has the following symptoms or signs: Bone pain that worsens at night or during rest, lumps that are more than the size of a lemon and growing rapidly, a fracture due to a fall or injury or paralysis, weakness, decrease appetite or loss of weight (advanced cases).

These are the types of bone cancer: Osteosarcoma (most common), Ewing's Sarcoma, Chondrosarcoma and Adamantinoma are different types with specific behaviour and progress. It is important to identify the different types to provide appropriate treatment at the earliest. Tests to identify include: X ray (Plain Radiograph), relevant blood tests, MRI and/or CT scan, biopsy and staging by whole body scan (bone scan or PET CT).

Individuals with bone cancers have several treatment



Relevant blood tests can help diagnose bone cancer

choices depending on the type of cancer/sarcoma and extent of the disease. They require a combination of chemotherapy, surgery and/or radiotherapy as per diagnosis. Amputation is not the only treatment option available currently. More than 90 per cent of bone cancers can be treated by Limb Saving Surgery.

What is limb saving surgery?

The goal of any limb saving surgery is to completely remove the tumour while preserving and maximising extremity mobility. It is possible to provide a customised limb saving surgery plan based on age, bone maturity, type of bone involved and functional demands of the individual, so that they can not only save their limb but use it well too. Different types of limb saving surgeries are as follows: Tumour Megaprosthesis, Custom Made Prosthesis Composite Reconstruction, Biological Reconstruction (Use of Recycled Tumour Graft OR Bone Bank Allograft), Paediatric (Growing Tumour prosthesis), Pelvic, Sacrum and Spinal Tumour Surgeries.

About soft tissue (cancer) sarcoma

These are heterogeneous groups of sarcomas arising from mesenchymal cells of the body (other than the bone and cartilage). They are divided and named based on tissue or cell of origin. Due to advancements in molecular genetics and cellular differentiation soft tissue sarcomas are being reclassified regularly based on immunohistochemistry. Soft Tissue Sarcoma (STS) can develop from cells of mesenchymal origin such as fat, muscle, nerves, fibrous tissues, and blood vessels. They can arise in any part of the body, but have a tendency to develop in extremities (nearly 60 per cent). Other sites are trunk, head and neck area, internal organs, retroperitoneal cavity. Currently, most STS are believed to arise spontaneously without any specific cause.

Few risk factors postulated are as follows: Radiation exposure, exposure to certain toxic chemicals, lymphedema and hereditary cancer syndromes. An individual with suspected STS presents with a painless lump which has grown over a period of weeks to months. Rarely, if lesions are superficial the skin may break down leading to ulcers and fungation. Pain is an uncommon presentation. Loss of weight or appetite are seen in advanced cases. Any lump more than 5 cm (size of a golf ball), growing lately or found deep to skin should be evaluated

The main treatment options include: Surgical removal, radiation therapy, and chemotherapy.

Dancing it out

GET MOVING
Shwetambari Shetty

It is simple, it's easy and most importantly, it's fun. Every time people ask me where they can kick-start their fitness journey, I normally tell them to start with something they thoroughly enjoy. And, that often tends to be dance fitness for the simple reason that everyone loves music and almost everyone loves to dance. A 30-minute session can burn nearly 130-250 calories depending upon your pace. I often hear people say how much fun they had after a dance fitness class. This fun element keeps them going back for more, what happens in the bargain is they burn a lot of calories.

Though dance fitness seems like an easy format to get started, don't under-estimate the power of this simple yet fun workout. Dance fitness classes are intricately planned by incorporating challenging movements and directional variations. This helps you engage your various muscle groups and gives you a holistic workout. As you keep attending dance fitness classes consistently for at least two weeks, you will start noticing that your stamina has increased, your cardiovascular endurance has improved, and you generally feel like you have a lot more energy to do things. Also, like with any other typical cardiovascular activity, dancing burns an immense amount of calories. By around 1-2 months you will see a great amount of weight and fat loss happening. Another noteworthy point is that someone new to the fitness world will thoroughly enjoy the class and come back for the fun elements, and stick to it, hence witnessing tremendous weight loss.

Dance fitness gives beginners the adrenaline rush like no other workout and gets them hooked to exercising. So, if you are a beginner, I would say that you stick to a few dance fitness classes at-least once or twice a week for at least a month, witness the change for yourself, and then switch to something else if you prefer. Essentially, as dance fitness is ideal for first-timers, they are also thought to be great for women. Since many women tend to work towards the goal of weight loss, they end up adoring dance fitness for the calorie-burn it provides alongside the enjoyment. But, that doesn't mean it is a women-centric format.

As it is a self-scalable workout, absolutely anyone can take up dance fitness, regardless of age or fitness level. For instance, a 35-year old and a 45-year old or a highly sedentary and moderately active individual can be in the same dance fitness class. Even better, a lot of our trainers are men. So, in simple words, dance fitness is for everyone who wants to burn a lot of calories while having fun. Above all other benefits, dance fitness makes you happy and is known to be a great stress buster.

SOULFUL

THE PAIN OF LONELINESS

Do you know what loneliness means? Some of you may be unfamiliar with that word, but you know the feeling very well. You try going out for a walk alone, or being without a book, without someone to talk to, and you will see how quickly you get bored. You know that feeling well enough, but you don't know why you get bored, you have never inquired into it. If you inquire a little into boredom you will find that the cause of it is loneliness. It is in order to escape from loneliness that we want to be together, we want to be entertained, to have distractions of every kind: gurus, religious ceremonies, prayers, or the latest novels. Being inwardly lonely we become mere spectators in life; and we can be the players only when we understand loneliness and go beyond it.

After all, most people marry and seek other social relationships because they don't know how to live alone. Not that one must live alone; but, if you marry because you want to be loved, or if you are bored and use your job as a means of forgetting yourself, then you will find that your whole life is nothing but an endless search for distractions. Very few go beyond this extraordinary fear of loneliness; but one must go beyond it, because beyond it lies the real treasure.

You know, there is a vast difference between loneliness and aloneness. Some of the younger students may still be unaware of loneliness, but the older people know it: the feeling of being utterly cut off, of suddenly being afraid without apparent cause. The mind knows this fear when for a moment it realises that it can rely on nothing, that no distraction can take away the sense of self-enclosing emptiness. That is loneliness. But aloneness is something entirely different; it is a state of freedom which comes into being when you have gone through loneliness and understand it. In that state of aloneness you don't rely on anyone psychologically because you are no longer seeking pleasure, comfort, gratification. It is only then that the mind is completely alone, and only such a mind is creative.

All this is part of education: to face the ache of loneliness, that extraordinary feeling of emptiness which all of us know, and not be frightened when it comes; not to turn on the radio, lose oneself in work, or run to the cinema, but to look at it, go into it, understand it. There is no human being who has not felt or will not feel that quivering anxiety. It is because we try to run away from it through every form of distraction and gratification – through God, through work, through writing poems or repeating certain words which we have learnt by heart – that we never understand that anxiety when it comes upon us.

So, when the pain of loneliness comes upon you, confront it, look at it without any thought of running away. If you run away you will never understand it, and it will always be there waiting for you around the corner. Whereas, if you can understand loneliness and go beyond it, then you will find there is no need to escape, no urge to be gratified or entertained, for your mind will know a richness that is incorruptible and cannot be destroyed.
